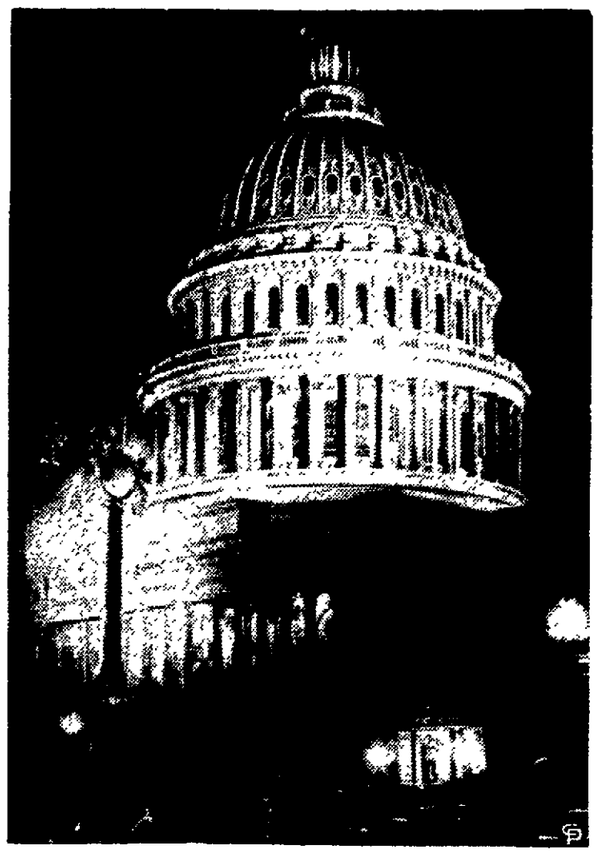
Quick House Action on Draft Expected

As Senate Passed Draft Bill



While the light in the dome of the Capitol gleamed, above, denoting a night session the U. S senate ended a bitter three-week debate on the conscription bill, adopting the measure by a 58 31 vote. The bill would put into effect the first peace-time draft of men into the armed forces in the history of the United States.

CONSCRIPTION BACKERS WIN SENATE FIGHT

Measure Adopted by Senators With 58 to 31 Vote After Three-Week Debate.

PROVISIONS LISTED

Representatives Book Debate Tuesday With Prospect of 4-Day Argument.

BULLETIN

WASHINGTON —(U.P.)— The house military affairs committee today approved the conscription bill in form calling for registration, and potential draft of men between the ages of 21 to 45. The committee's final vote on the bill was 17 to 4.

(By Associated Press)

WASHINGTON—Their battle for peacetime conscription half won by a 58-to-31 vote victory in the senate, supporters of the Burke-Wadsworth compulsory military training bill mustered their forces today for the fight to come in the house.

After three weeks of stormy debate, the senate gave its approval to conscription last night at the close of a tense, nine-hour session.

The bill, as passed, was substantially unchanged in its essentials from the version originally recommended by the senate military committee One major addition would give the government the power to "conscript" industry for defense, if necessary.

WASHINGTON —(U.P.)— Ohio's senators, Robert A. Taft and A. Vic Donahey, voted against the Burke-Wadsworth military conscription bill.

The victory was expected to hasten the action of the house military committee on a somewhat different version of the bill which it is considering.

Debate is tentatively scheduled to start Tuesday and forecasts were that it would consume at least four days. Proponents of conscription were optimistic that the bill would be passed, and opponents privately conceded that chances of defeating it were slim.

The bill, as passed by the senate, contained the following major provisions:

1—All male citizens or prespective citizens from 21 through 30 would be required to register, with few exceptions.

2—Registered men would be subject to call for a year's compulsory military service.

Rumanian troops on the march

As foreign ministers of Germany, Italy, Hungary and Rumania gathered in Vienna (No. 2 in map) today to decide the Rumanian-Hungarian crisis, Rumanian troops stood ready for any eventuality. They have already engaged in sharp clashes with Russians and Hungarians along the borders of those countries (No. 1). London newspapers, foreseeing a general Balkan war, reported mobilization of Yugoslavian, Greek, Hungarian, Bulgarian and Rumanian troops (No. 3).

Bombs Dropped In Nazi Capital Take Ten Lives

Germans Limit Attacks on Britain to Night Flying; Both Sides Charge Foes With Hitting Sections Inhabited By Workers.

BULLETIN

LONDON —(U.P.)— An armada of nearly 200 German planes roared over the southeast coast late this afternoon and penetrated some distance inland. When British fighter planes appeared to engage them the planes reportedly fled without dropping any bombs.

BULLETIN

LONDON — (U.P.) — German planes were reported late today in the vicinity of an inland southeast town. It was the day's first report of raiders.

(By United Press)

LONDON—Royal Air Force bombers successfully raided the Berlin area, an official announcement reported today, while German raiders bombed a British Midlands city, attacked a southwest coast town and flew almost until dawn over London

The brief, official report on the British raid on Berlin said that a "successful" attack had been made upon "selected military objectives" in the Berlin area.

With the dawn German air activity over Britain came to a dead halt for hours. Heaviest night blows were aimed at a midlands city and a southwest town, neither of which were identified here.

(Berlin claimed heavy damage to Cardiff, Liverpool and Bristol on Britain's west and southwest coast and to Sheffield in the Midlands).

Mid-afternoon had arrived before reports of any German plane

BERLIN—British bombers roaring high over the German capital for nearly three hours in a pre-dawn attack, took a toll of 10 dead and about 30 wounded today in a workers' section less than two miles from government offices in the Wilhelmstrasse.

All the casualties were civilians.

While an early-morning automobile inspection tour appeared to bear out the authorities' claim that no military objectives of consequence were hit, army officers, firemen and police hastened to Kottbusser street, in the southeastern part of the city, where the chief damage was done.

The officers took technical notes; the firemen fought blazes started by incendiary bombs, and the police investigated reports the British had loosed delayed action missiles which might go off hours or even days after they were dropped.

Through arrangement with the propaganda ministry, three American newspapermen, including an Associated Press correspondent, were taken on a two-hour tour. They visited Kottbusser street and also were taken to whatever potential military targets they wished to visit.

Such places at Tempelhof airdrome, where civilian planes were being warmed up; the Klingenberg power plant, which supplies half of Berlin, and railway stations all were undamaged. It was impossible, however, to cover all possible points of military importance on the flying trip, but the only dam-

Woman Chases Boy Purse Snatcher, Catches Him

Arlington Avenue Resident Flags Down Auto to Help Her, Leaps From Machine to Nab One of Youths.

Captured last night by a woman whose purse he had grabbed only five minutes before, a Marion avenue youth and his 14-year-old companion were to be arraigned before Judge C. J. Anderson in juvenile court today.

The boy was apprehended by Mrs. R Felver, 544 Arlington avenue, on Park avenue west near Douglas avenue, shortly after two youths had grabbed her purse while she walked along Marion avenue between Poplar street and Bartley avenue.

The other youth was brought to police headquarters by his parents who had been notified by police that he was wanted in connection with the purse snatching. The boy's parents said they found the woman's coin purse in his pocket when he returned home. It contained 73 cents.

Mrs. Felver told officers that the youths approached her from the rear while she was on her way home. She said they grabbed her purse and ran north on Bartley avenue.

Displaying presence of mind, she stepped to the street and halted a passing motorist and the two gave chase. They lost the boys when they fled down Parker street.

As the car turned onto Park avenue she saw, one of the youths and jumped from the machine and grabbed him. The driver of the car called police and then disappeared.

Officers said the youths seperated after taking the coin purse from the pocketbook which was later discovered in a hedge on Baldwin avenue where it had been tossed during their flight.

Probate court records show that the two boys were arrested for theft 18 months ago and placed on probation for a year by Judge Anderson.

BREAK CAMP

Guardsmen Start Home After 'Battle of Wisconsin.'

CAMP McCOY, Wis. —(INS)— Camp McCoy, for three weeks the scene of maneuvers for 60,000 men of the second army, bustled with activity for the last time today as the troops broke camps to head for home.

Tired and dusty, and with much of their equipment still wet after four days of mock warfare in an almost continuous downpour, the troops, practically to a man, were looking forward to a return to home cooked meals, dry clothes, and rest.

During the maneuvers, the national guards of seven states, plus some 20,000 regulars of the fifth division, engaged in training which included demonstrations of all phases of modern warfare. The guardsmen came from Illinois, Indiana, Michigan, Ohio, West Virginia, Kentucky and Wisconsin.

YOUNGSTOWN—(INS)—In an attempt to keep the Communist party and Communist party candidates off the Mahoning county ballot Nathan M. Kaufman, Youngstown attorney, filed a demand with Prosecutor William A. Ambrose for legal action preventing the board of elections from sanctioning such a petition.

Kaufman said he would file a taxpayer's suit unless Ambrose acted.

SHOWERS AGAIN

That's the Forecast and the Temperature Won't Change.

Take your "rain stick" with you tonight and Friday is the warning sent out by the weatherman for there will be showers and probably more showers. But there won't be much change in the temperature.

"Ideal" was the word for the weather of the past 36 hours, according to the man on the street, for the mild temperature stopped at 86 and never dropped below 66.

Yesterday's average of 76, however, was considerably warmer than the average of 58 for the same date during the past 15 years. Today at 11 a. m. the mercury stood at 79 degrees.

WALK 6 MILES ON CREEK CHECK

City, County Officials and Industrial Representatives Survey Rocky Fork.

With something of the spirit of the pioneers of the "Northwest Passage" days, but with less adequate equipment, more than a dozen city and county officials, Mansfield Conservancy board members, and industrial firm representatives began a six-mile trek this morning through the "wilds" of the Rocky Fork channel east of Mansfield.

It was no venture of discovery, but one of necessity, and some of the fellows who started the hike with reluctance probably wished that state law about inspecting ditches and streams to be dredged had been amended before this came up.

In preparation for the dredging of the Rocky Fork creek channel as a flood-control measure, the delegation had to view the proposed project site, but there is nothing in the law that says all of them must finish the trip.

There wasn't an ox or rowboat in sight at 9 a. m. today when

News that McManus had died peacefully late yesterday of a heart ailment at his summer bungalow in Spring Lake, N. J., reached Broadway in the early hours today. McManus had been seriously ill the past six months

PARTY PATTERN

Wallace Speech Tonight Holds Keynote for Campaign.

DES MOINES, Ia.—(U.P.)—Henry A. Wallace accepts the Democratic nomination for vice-president tonight in a speech expected to form the pattern for a national campaign.

More than 10,000 persons, including delegations from neighboring midwestern states, were expected to fill the coliseum to hear the 24-minute speech in which he will stress national defense.

Rep. Marvin Jones (D., Tex.), chairman of the house agriculture committee and staunch supporter of Wallace's farm program, will deliver the formal notification of the Democratic national convention's nomination at Chicago last month.

PARLEY: Statesmen Study Way To Peace In Troubled Balkans

BULLETIN

BERLIN—(INS)—Soviet Russia has delivered a note to Rumania which effectively disposes of border difficulties between the two countries, it was asserted in Berlin today.

BULLETIN

BUCHAREST—(U.P.)—Rumania strengthened her border defenses today and gave orders to air force squadrons in Transylvania to stand by on "war time alert."

(By United Press)

VIENNA—The foreign ministers of Germany and Italy met with Hungary's Foreign Minister Count Stephen Csaky and Premier Count Paul Teleki at the Imperial hotel today in the first session of a conference called to settle the quarrel between Hungary and Rumania over Transylvania.

Later, the Axis powers' foreign ministers Joachim von Ribbentrop of Germany and Count Galeazzo Ciano of Italy, were to meet a Rumanian delegation, due this afternoon.

The plan apparently was for Von Ribbentrop and Ciano to hear each side of the quarrel, which has developed into border skirmishes this week, and then to bring the Rumanian and Hungarian delegations together for a four-nation session

Basis for the conference presumably was laid down by Adolf Hitler when he conferred with Von Ribbentrop and Ciano at his Obersalzburg mountain chalet yesterday.

Observers believed that the Axis powers would have little difficulty enforcing their defense for peace in the Balkans on Rumania and Hungary. A larger problem loomed, however—the uncertainty of Russia's position. Russian sources in Berlin were quoted that no Russian observer was attending the conference here. There had been no indication that Russia was invited.

(A reliable source at Bucharest said Rumanian Foreign Minister Manoilescu had taken to Vienna a note received from Russia warning that if Rumania ceded any territory to Hungary or Bulgaria, Russia might be forced to march west to the crest of the Carpathian mountains in "self defense.")

German spokesmen said the purpose of the conference was "to assure a peaceful settlement of questions which we realize must be settled. Our vital economic in-

BOMBED: Suez Canal Hit By Duce's Raiders for First Time

(By Associated Press)

ROME—Italian planes bombed the Suez canal for the first time yesterday, the Fascist high command announced today.

Bombs were dropped on the northernmost part of the canal, between Port Said and Ismailia, the high command said, as well as on the Ikantara ferry, where the railroad line passes between Egypt and Palestine.

The daily Italian communique also reported another raid on Alexandria, Egyptian port where the British maintain an important naval base

(A British communique yesterday said Port Said was bombed for more than an hour but that there were no casualties and no damage.)

British attempts to invade Eritrea, in Italian East Africa, from the Anglo-Egyptian Sudan were beaten off, the high command reported. Twelve Australians of the British force were said to have been killed

The Italians also claimed occupation of a British outpost, Fort Polignac, near Lake Dubat by native Italian Somaliland troops, and defeat of a British raid on Galabat, an Italian outpost in the Sudan.

Iraq Expedition Rode In Armored Cars.

CHICAGO — (INS) — Behind Dr. Henry Field's published 'Anthropology of Iraq' is a story of strange combinations of modern and ancient ways.

Dr. Field, curator of the Field Museum of Natural History, was the first to publish an authoritative work on the physical characteristics of the inhabitants of Iraq, which was one of the three cradles of civilization known to the modern world.

In his travels through Mesopotamia Dr. Field was forced to use almost every kind of transportation known to man, from horses and primitive boats, up to modern armored cars.

The armored cars were provided by the Iraq government to afford the expedition protection from some of the inhabitants of Kurdistan.

Chicago Sox Embarass First Division Clubs

Jimmy Dykes Pulls Surprises on Leading Teams; Sox Trip Boston, 3 to 2.

THE ONLY thing missing when Jimmy (Do It With Mirrors) Dykes opened his new bowling and soda emporium in Philadelphia the other night was for the International Society of Magicians to step up and present him with an engraved card as an honorary member.

If ever a fellow rated it for reaching into hats and pulling out all sorts of surprises, to the red-faced confusion of most of the American league's first division, Jimmy is the lad.

He's been doing it for years, too, out there with his Chicago White Sox. Right now, he's only a game away from first division as a result of his 3-2 victory over the Boston Red Sox yesterday in the only American league game to get by the rain.

Jimmy has been doing his tricks year after year with a collection of baseballers which at best, is nothing to go into ecstasies over

When Jimmy rolls up his sleeves and starts his magic stunts, he has three eye-opening tricks The first is his almost regular first division finish Second is the way he and his Sox come along to chill the leaders at the most embarrassing times.

Third, there's the stunt of being in front this year in the season series with every other club in the league, except for the Cleveland Indians and the Red Sox

Jimmy doesn't feel at all comfortable about the 8-4 edge the Indians hold over the Sox in games played between the two this season, and he's just waiting for the six games still to come with the Tribe

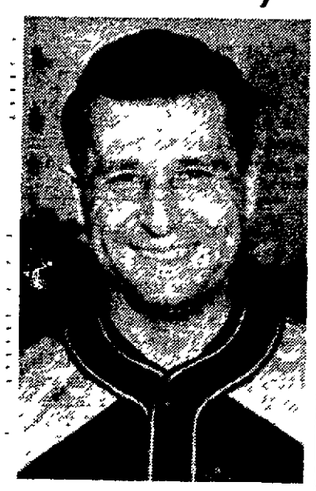
"Y'know," he said today, "it wouldn't surprise me at all if something happened to Cleveland in those six games In fact, looking over the schedule, you might say our gang can decide the pennant race. We play six more with Cleveland, five with Detroit and three each with the Yanks and Boston"

Over in the National league, the pennant race became a seven-team affair yesterday to the surprise of no one. The Phillies who never had a chance anyway, dropped both ends of a doubleheader to some excellent elbowing by Pittsburgh Pitchers Truett Sewell and Joe Bowman and were eliminated mathematically from the flag chase

Sewell tossed a three-hitter in the opener for a 5-0 victory, and Bowman came back with a six-hitter for a 5-2 decision.

The New York Giants climbed back into a tie for third place by trouncing the St. Louis Cardinals, 5 2, largely on homers by Jojo Moore and Tony Cuccinello. Dick Errickson's steady twirling gave the Boston Bees an 8-3 edge over the Chicago Cubs, dropping the Cubs into sixth place.

Beats Tinkeys



FREDDIE CARVER

Mound Ace Chalks Up 2nd Straight Win Over Softball Club.

WHEN it comes to halting the touted Tinkey Lumber company softball team you have to take your hat off to Freddie Carver.

Carver, one of the better moundsmen in Mansfield, proved the fact this week by beating the Lumbers in two successive starts.

In his first game, Monday, hurling for the Safety Cabs, he turned back the Lumbers, 3 and 2, and came back last night to stop the Lumbers by a 7 to 0 count in a Y M C A Independent league contest at Liberty park

The two triumphs enabled the Cabs to climb into tie for second place with the Alta Lumbers in the league race.

Freddie who also twirls for the Sons of Herman stepped up on the hill last night and was never in trouble as he gave up two hits, fanned five and didn't issue a walk

Meanwhile his teammates, led by Gene Yarmon and Gene Rudolph, went to work on "Stub" Winebrenner, Tinkey's mound ace for a run in the first

The Cabbies added a marker in the second another in the third and wound up their scoring with a four-run splurge in the fourth frame.

It marks the first time that Winebrenner has suffered two straight beatings this season. In gaining a share of second place the Cabbies have marked up an impressive record.

* * *

They won two games each from the Wescos Tinkeys and Tavernettes, divided contests with the Mansfield Wreckers Wemcos and All State Freights The Alta Lumbers hold the edge over the Cabbies, having scored two straight wins

Derringer to Work for Reds

Cincinnati Opens Series With Dodgers Today.

By JOHN FRYE

CINCINNATI —(AP)— Leo Durocher firmly yea militantly, announced today that the Cincinnati Reds may have a 7½-game lead over his Dodgers but "nobody's concedin' nothin'"

Raked with a cross-fire of "are the Dodgers still in there pitching or are they building for next year already?" the fire-eating manager of the boys from Brooklyn snapped back:

"This is still 1940 as far as I've heard You Cincinnati fans got a right to your opinions and I got a right to mine and I say you got to play the season out. I'm not concedin' you the pennant and maybe you're goin' to get the surprise of your lives yet!"

The remarks are pertinent because the Dodgers and Reds open a delayed, semi-crucial two-game series today providing the Ohio valley weather situation improves

"I got a great ball club with me," Lippy added "Anything you get from us you'll work for."

Paul Derringer or Gene Thompson for the Reds and Whitlow Wyatt or Lee Grissom for the Dodgers are the pitchers managers Durocher and Frisch being what it is these days

Angles for Anglers

By ROBERT OLDS

COLUMBUS—(U.P.)—Angles for anglers: better cart along that fishing rod for the Labor day week end. Starting Sunday you'll be able to fish those inviting little places along streams which for the past three and one half months have been marked "no fishing. Fish safety zones."

* * *

The signs, set up by the state conservation and natural resources commission, have restricted angling in the best spawning and rearing areas along Ohio's streams since May 15.

More than 100 zones covering about 75 miles of Ohio's 12,000 miles of streams, according to Ed L. Wickliffe, assistant chief of the fish management division, were intended to "protect the fish and fish food."

"The protection of fish food is important," he said, "as fish cannot reproduce and grow without food."

This year was the first time in the history of the state that such an order was made prohibiting fishing for all kinds of fish in certain sections.

"I think the zone idea was very well received," Commissioner D. W. Waters said. "It seemed to be a popular thing with the sportsmen and we didn't receive a report of a single violation in a safety zone."

"I think it's quite likely that the conservation commission will be asked to establish the safety zone program again next year," the commissioner told the United Press.

The places where the zone signs are found and where you will be able to fish on Sunday include:

Schoolmasters Triumph Again

The Schoolmasters' softball aggregation, out to chalk up its most impressive season record, won its 12th straight victory by defeating the Isaly Dairy nine 6 to 4 yesterday in a postponed Y. M. C. A. Club league contest at Blue Goose field.

The teachers did their scoring early, getting five runs in the first three innings. They scored their final tally in the seventh frame. The Dairys were held scoreless until the fourth inning when they pushed two runs across the plate. They added another run in the sixth and seventh.

Al Fendrick and Baumgardner led the hitting for the teachers, collecting two hits apiece, while Laughlin was the batting star for the Dairys, getting three hits in four trips to the plate, and scoring two of their runs. One of his hits was a home run. Prosser also hit for the circuit for the Dairys. The box score was turned in too late for today's publication.

Favored in $1,500 Event at Ohio State Fair.

COLUMBUS—(U.P.)—A full sister of the horse which won the coveted Governor's Cup race in 1939 will try to repeat the performance today at the Ohio State fairground track.

Mary M., owned by Mike Devitt of Cleveland, and a sister to Tom Manning, speedy winner of the trotting classic last year, is the favorite to capture the $1,500 feature event of the state fair harness race program.

Another outstanding horse among the field of 11 starters is Modern Boy, owned by Shelton McGrath, Peoria, Ill and driven by Harry Short, veteran Columbus driver who finished second in the Hambletonian this year with his Remus.

Mary M, Modern Boy and also Agnes Hanover, a third entry owned by J Ray Lynch, Massillon, have been on the Grand Circuit this summer and all were eligible but not entered in the Hambletonian.

None of the Ohio entries in the Hambletonian, Remus, Milestone, owned by Joe Neville, Delaware, or Gentleman Jim, owned by John F. Davis, Toledo, are entered in the Governor's race

Short yesterday piloted Bell Boy, owned by C. H. Bowen, Columbus, to an easy victory in the first division pace for two-year-olds. Lansdown, owned by William Hughes, Cleveland, and driven by Johnny Caton, was the victor in the $1,000 Director of Agriculture stake. It was Hughes' fifth winner in that race in 27 years.

Under the guidance of Bob Plaxico, O C Adleman's Hal B Direct of Mt Vernon sped to victory in the Ohio pacing derby in straight heats.

Peggy L. Braden, owned by Joseph Stauble, Greenville, was the winner in the second division pace, two heats out of three.

Lady Pamela, owned by H. E. Warwick, Cleveland Heights, lost the first heat of the State Highway Patrol trot but came back in the second and third heats to win.

The only top-notchers who failed to get by yesterday were Craig Wood and Jimmy Demaret Also knocked out were Jimmy Thompson and Harry Cooper.

To this point, none has played better than the defending champion, Henry Picard, who takes on Gene Sarazen today.

Dick Metz, the medalist at 140 meets former open champion Byron Nelson of Toledo and Walter Hagen opposes Harold (Jug) McSpaden.

Blues Trip Red Birds

Score 5-4 Win in 15 Innings Over Columbus Team.

(By Associated Press)

Kansas City's Blues have been setting the American association pace most of the year, but it was the manner in which they achieved a single victory last night that made them the surer of their top position.

The Blues beat off the tenacious and determined Columbus Red Birds, 5 to 4, after 15 innings in the first of their two-game series.

Victory left Kansas City eight games ahead of both Minneapolis and Columbus, although percentages forced the latter into third place.

Bill Hitchcock's triple with Priddy on base gave Kansas City the decision after Columbus had rallied for three runs in the ninth to tie the score at four.

Columbus used four pitchers and Kansas City three with victory going to Al Gerehauser, who permitted just one hit in the last six innings.

The game was the only one that went to a decision last night. Rain halted Milwaukee and Toledo after five scoreless innings in the first game of their scheduled double bill. The other contests never got that far because of the weather.

Defense Council Warns Merchants Against Profiteering

WOULD POLICE GOODS PRICES IF NECESSARY

Retailers Told Co-operation Would Be Preferred By Government.

(By International News Service)

WASHINGTON — The national defense council today warned the country's retail merchants at a meeting in Washington that the federal government will police prices of consumer goods if there is an unwarranted boom because of the rearmament program.

The warning was given by Ben Lewis, chief economist for the consumers division of the defense commission. He addressed a meeting of representatives of large retailing groups called by Miss Harriet Elliott, consumer advisor on the defense commission.

Lewis declared that "we shall prefer to facilitate rather than to police" prices but he added:

"In the last analysis we have a job to do and we must be prepared to face the test of results."

In extreme cases of price rises without justification, he warned, the commission "shall not hesitate to call upon the assistance of the appropriate agencies in breaking log jams which clog the channels of consumers goods and threaten the program of civilian defense."

Fred Lazarus, jr., prominent Columbus, Ohio, department store executive, also addressed the meeting and suggested that the retailers co-operate with the government in order to prevent any mandatory controls of prices by law. He proposed that an organization be formed to carry out co-operation.

ROOSEVELT SON HITS FORD VIEW

Elliott Also Takes Crack at Colonel Lindbergh During Radio Broadcast.

FORT WORTH, Texas—Henry Ford and Col. Charles A. Lindbergh were under fire today from Elliott Roosevelt, the president's son, for their views on international affairs.

In a Texas radio broadcast, young Roosevelt, referring to the motor magnate's refusal to make airplane engines for Great Britain, said:

Ford is batting exactly zero at the plate in the game of international baseball. His rather ridiculous peace ship mission during the last war represented a strikeout. He definitely went down swinging. Now he had struck out again."

Of Col. Lindbergh, Roosevelt said.:

"And what is there in Lindbergh's background which qualifies him to pose as an expert in international affairs? There are certain holes in the logic of his reasoning which are not compatible with his known intelligence."

Anti-Third Term Texas Democrats Organize Party

DALLAS (AP) Political forces of this rock-ribbed Democratic state split today over the New Deal's third term movement and whether Wendell Willkie is to carry Texas in November.

This state thereby became one of the first to form a Democratic organization favoring the Republican presidential nominee—himself a Democrat until a few years ago.

FACES CHARGE IN ROBBERY

Youth Captured by Officer After Firing Shot. To Be In Court Saturday.

A charge of breaking and entering had been filed today against a 20-year-old colored youth captured by police Monday and said to have confessed to burglarizing at least nine Mansfield homes.

He is Walter E. Cansler, colored, of 124 North Adams street. The affidavit against him names only one robbery, that of the home of Chase Southworth, 629 Bowman street, in which a camera, watch, electric iron and flashlight was stolen.

Cansler will be arraigned before Judge G. E. Kalbfleisch in municipal court Saturday morning for a preliminary hearing.

He was apprehended early Monday morning near the grain elevators on North Main street at the Pennsylvania railroad after he had been frightened from the home of George Skaff, 94 Orchard street.

Patrolman John Steele took the youth into custody after running him down when he failed to halt at the officer's command. Steele took up the chase on foot after firing a shot from his service revolver into the ground.

Mansfield Catholic Church To Have Part In Toledo Dedicatory Rites.

Announcement has been made from the bishop's headquarters of the Toledo diocese of the Catholic church that the new Holy Rosary cathedral in that city will be formally dedicated Oct. 1 and 2. Mansfield is a part of the diocese.

Catholics through the diocese will be given a four-weeks' program preceding the dedication on the history of the great Catholic cathedrals. Msgr. R. C. Goebel of St. Peters church said the program would get under way next week.

The cathedral, which will be the bishop's church, has been under construction for 15 years. It was started in 1925 and is built of stone. It is said to be one of the finest cathedrals in America. Its auditorium will seat about 2,600.

Church dignitaries from all over the United States and from Canada will come to Toledo for the dedicatory services, according to Msgr. Goebel. The Mansfield churchman, his staff of assistants and many of his parishioners will attend the celebration.

Dodger Infielder Has Appendix Out In Nick of Time

CINCINNATI — (AP) — Surgeons took a gangrenous appendix from Harry A. "Cookie" Lavagetto today and the Brooklyn Dodgers' clock third baseman will be lost to the team for the remainder of the season.

Dr. Reed Shank, staff surgeon of the Cincinnati Reds, said Lavagetto was "a very sick boy." The appendix had not ruptured, he declared but added "we caught it in the nick of time."

His illness climaxes a long run of hard luck that has beset the Flatbushers this year.

WAR DEPARTMENT GIVES THIRD CITATION TO EX-MANSFIELDER

Belated recognition of heroic action on the part of two members of the A. E. F. by the war department today added to the honors already conferred upon a former Mansfield man.

He is Col. Charles Williams, 46, of Miami, Okla., son of Mrs. Charles S. Williams, Stewart avenue, former motorcycle racer in the days when that was one of Mansfield's leading sports.

Williams was given a citation for the Silver Star for "gallantry in action" in making scouting trips into No Man's Land, during the World war. A similar citation was given Nathan Aldrich of Shortsville, N. Y.

This is the third time that Williams, now a colonel in the Reserve Officers corps, has been honored for his work in France. He won the Croix de Guerre from the French government during the war for his work of saving French and American army equipment at Soissons before the German army marched in, and the United States conferred the Distinguished Service Medal on him for the same work, after he returned.

Williams was taking his course in mining engineering at the University of Nevada at Reno when America entered the World war. He went to the Presidio in San Francisco to enlist and was immediately recommended for a first lieutenancy, but because of his youth was held to a second lieutenant's commission.

He was first assigned to Ft. Leavenworth as an instructor, but begged for service overseas. He was sent over as an engineer and later was one of the men in the Chemical Warfare Service. It was in this capacity that he came in contact with the Mansfield boys who made up Company M, 146th Infantry.

He came to the Meuse-Argonne sector, where the Buckeye division was stationed, to lay a smoke screen for the advance of the 146th.

His interest and work in the Reserve Officers have advanced him to a colonelcy.

Registration of Aliens Continues At Brisk Pace

Before closing time at the postoffice yesterday more than 200 aliens from Mansfield and vicinity had obtained application blanks for federal alien registration, Postmaster H. E. Homberger said today.

During the first few hours this morning a steady stream of aliens filed into Homberger's office and it was expected by officials that the total of applicants would reach the 300 mark today.

Homberger said that so far the registration had operated smoothly and efficiently. Those who could not speak or write English usually brought along interpreters, he said.

The applicants readily agreed to be fingerprinted and on the whole were eager to give the required information, Homberger stated further.

A survey of major Ohio cities, according to the Associated Press, showed today that Ohio taxpayers are helping to feed, clothe and shelter at least 3,600 aliens. Under statute aliens receiving relief are presumed to have applied for citizenship or declared their intention of doing so.

According to Homberger authorities at the postoffice had no way as yet of determining how many aliens are on relief roles here.

LOCAL OPTION VOTE LOOMS IN S. BOULEVARDS

Petitions Obtained to Place Liquor Sale Question on November Ballot.

Petitions had been obtained today from the Richland county board of elections for a local option election on the sale of beer, wine and liquor in South Boulevards, new village south of Mansfield.

While the names of the petition circulators were not available, Walter Underwood, deputy clerk of the election board said a voter in the village obtained several of them and told him they would be circulated.

It was estimated that less than 50 signatures will be needed to place the local option question on the ballot at the November election, since only 15 per cent of the voters at the last general election have to sign the papers.

Mayor E. C. Flory of South Boulevards said he knew nothing of the petitions, but he understood there was some opposition to the opening of a tavern with a liquor license at the former Schwarz tavern location on Lexington avenue. Schwarz recently sold the tavern to a Clevelander, it was said.

If the question goes on the November ballot, voters will decide whether any form of beer, wine or hard liquor can be sold within the village corporation limits, either for consumption on the premises or to take away.

RENEW LEASE

Republicans Retain Warner Building as Headquarters.

The Richland County Republican executive committee has renewed its lease on the Warner building on North Main street for campaign headquarters until Dec. 1, Ralph Hardy, executive chairman, said today.

The county G. O. P. organization has used the large upstairs assembly hall and office at intervals for the past two years. Last year, however, the assembly room was relinquished to the schools for temporary class rooms while the two new junior high schools were being built.

Hardy said all of the party's indoor rallies before the November election will be held in the room which seats about 1,000.

CHAPTER IV

"What happened this afternoon?" Edwina asked. "I can't seem to remember . . . How convenient it would be if I could lose my memory! May I have a cigaret, Amy? Please. Don't be hard on me. There are some in my purse."

"Very well," Amy Durfee said. "But after I've told you I'm going to give you a pill to make you sleep." She found Edwina's cigarets, took one, put it between Edwina's lips and held a lighted match for her. "You were racing. Do you rmeember now? The young man you were racing brought you here and a girl named Carol Tallant. I didn't get the young man's name. He said he'd be back and . . . I've an idea you'll be very glad to see him."

Edwina grinned. "I thought you were a man-hater." She nodded. "I remember now. We raced all the way from New York. It was fun. I got on the wrong street, used my brakes and bang! Who was the girl? I'd like to send her something."

"The girl is a nurse. She's the girl Alan is going to marry . . ."

Edwina was very still as she looked up at Amy with a direct and honest glance. Then she asked, "What have five years done to him? Is hé still the stubborn, conceited, unfeeling . . ."

Amy said, "He is one of our most respected citizens now. He has his own law office and great things are predicted for him. His mother died. And Alan is going to marry a girl who has done a great deal to bring him out of his shell."

"That's great. That's marvelous. But who cares?" With an effort she sat up and for a few minutes she inhaled deeply on the cigaret before she spoke again, and this time with a surprising earnestness. "Don't go yet, Amy. I can't talk to any one else and I . . . You know that I sang in a New York night club last winter, don't you? And you thought, every one thought, that I did it for a thrill, for publicity, for the pure hell of it. I hated it —all the smoke and staring eyes. I did it because I'm—I'm broke."

"Broke? But that's incredible, Edwina!"

"No. It's true. Dad didn't leave me as much as people thought he did and he lost more in '29 than people knew about. And he gave away a lot more than any one will ever know about. I don't know anything about money. I spent it. It—went. I couldn't believe it either but with the taxes and things . . . I've been living on my friends for a year. They thought I was visiting them."

The dark, nervous lashes swept downward.

"I came home because there isn't any other place to go. I've sold most of my jewels to pay the taxes on the house here. I'll never sell that. I'll steal or beg before I'll sell that. You know how Dad loved that place, every flower, every hill, every blade of grass. It was the dream of an Irish immigrant boy to have a home like that with his portrait above the fireplace. I've just about enough money to see me through the summer here and in the fall I've got to go back to New York and get a job."

"I don't want anybody to know about this, Amy. There'd be too many people glad and sorry. Funny, people either like me a lot or despise me."

She lay back again and took a deep breath. "Now you may give me that pill . . ."

When Amy had given her the pill and gone out closing the door quietly, Edwina cushioned her head with her arms and looked about the darkened room, knowing that she could not sleep for memories that cut like knives, memories of her father, memories of Alan to whom she had been married but to whom she had never been a wife . . .

Hers was, she had been told, a Cinderella story. The daughter of an Irish immigrant who had seen Newton transformed from a sleepy small town into a growing little city, with his name spread upon banks and stores and factories. From an incorrigible little girl who had liked to play and fight with boys, she became the mistress of the big white house in the hills, a girl envied, sought after, feared, who kept the house filled with the gay young people genial Patrick Burke loved.

At seventeen, she met Alan who had been persuaded to come to a party in rented dinner clothes. And she had fallen impetuously in love with him, pursuing him shamelessly. And Alan, the serious student working his way through the university, had found it difficult to avoid her.

In the beginning Alan had said to her, "Edwina, everything about you, your name, your clothes, your diamonds, your cars, tell me to stay away."

And she said, "Alan, I'm nobody. You know that. Just because my father has made a lot of money he doesn't know what to do with. . . . We're simple people, he and I. All the glitter means nothing."

But Edwina, who had been kissed by many boys, had never been kissed by Alan, and all the things about her, her money, her gamin good looks that made her the most popular girl in town, were insurmountable barriers between her and the only boy she had ever loved or wanted to marry.

She had known then that it was not his indifference that appealed to her but his fine qualities, his honesty, his devotion to his mother, and his determination to succeed on his own ability. Even then, at seventeen, she had been able to penetrate the shallowness of the people who praised her and followed her and took advantage of her father's hospitality. Alan came only if she begged him and today, at twenty-three, she knew that loving him had taught her the first humility she had ever known.

Her coming-out party when she was eighteen was still discussed in Newton as the most elaborate party ever given south of New York. Yet on the morning of her party she could not think of anything except the scheme that had been revolving in her mind for weeks.

Alan had come that night reluctantly, and again in rented evening clothes. The sight of him, his blond hair smooth, his face tanned from tennis, coming to pay his respects to her father and her was still remarkably clear. For a few seconds she had felt that the two people she loved most in the world were beside her. As the evening went on and more than a hundred people ate and drank and danced to music of an orchestra imported from New York, she saw her scheme materializing. Before midnight, Alan plied with the champagne he had never tasted before, was drunk. At midnight she had led him to her car and was driving toward the next town for a marriage license.

It had been astonishingly simple. Every one obliged Edwina Burke — the sleepy clerk, the sleepy clergyman, his sleepy wife and daughter. In an old-fashioned parlor at two o'clock in the morning they had been married while she firmly held Alan's arm. But during the drive back to Newton his head had cleared, they had quarreled violently, he had struck her and taken the wheel, and when they reached the lighted house where no one had missed them, he had called her father to the library and told him what Edwina had done. Then he had walked out of the house and she had not seen him since that night.

The papers made much of the story though Edwina was in Florida the following week. And she had come home after a month to bury her father, knowing that she had disappointed him, that she had failed to uphold his high standards of honesty and decency, and that he had died hurt over what she had done to Alan. That was the great bitterness, her father's hurt and disappointment. The marriage had been annulled while tongues had been loosened and fingers pointed.

An heiress, she had left Newton forever, she thought then. Since then her life had been a series of fast luxury liners, fast planes, new faces, new places, parties, clothes—and men. She was news. Newton had read about her broken engagement to an impoverished count, her argument with a certain foreign consul over a lost passport, the theft of her jewels in Cannes, her singing in a New York night club. . .

Now admitting her guilt, her shame, her helplessness, her weariness, she quietly cried herself to sleep.

When Amy came into her room an hour later, she pushed back Edwina's hair from her moist forehead. Like a tired, frightened child who had strayed too far, Edwina had at last found her way home . . .

The next day, Carol, in uniform, received her father's patients, took their temperatures and quieted their fears. By noon the office was empty. She changed to a silk frock the color of corn, and joined her father for luncheon. They had breakfasted at different times, and she knew that he now would mention the large photograph of Edwina which had appeared in the morning paper along with the account of the accident.

Edwina's provocative face, her cloud of dark hair and the clear wide apart eyes had had a haunting loveliness in them which stayed in her mind through the succession of patients. Between questions about somebody's baby or somebody's aged parent, she had debated with herself as to whether or not to call on Edwina at the hospital, knowing that if it were any one except Edwina, she would surely go. But Alan would object and his objection would hurt her.

The reporter who wrote the account had had a nose for news and a keen memory. For Norman's name had obviously sent him digging for information and by this time all of Newton knew the grandson of A. P. Alexander, banker, millionaire and art collector, had come into their midst for the summer. For the first time Edwina Burke had shared a column with somebody else.

Her father looked across the table at her and chuckled.

"As they say, my dear, 'When you pick 'em, you pick 'em'."

She smiled. "They gave me one sentence. 'Miss Carol Tallant of 315 Vine street accompanied them to the hospital'." Alan would hate that, their friends questioning and thinking of the remarkable coincidence. This was the first obstacle in the way of their happiness. But why make it an obstacle? Why indeed?

* * *

Her father laughed quietly. Then he said rather soberly, "You see, Carol, nothing remains the same. You can keep your house in order only for a limited time. Two crashing cars hurled two strange people into your life." Then he was good-humored again, his eyes twinkling as he smiled. "Pity poor young Alexander! The rush of ambitious girls and their socially ambitious mamas will probably drive him away unless some one nabs him soon."

"Perhaps Edwina Burke will. They're two colorful people."

"Matchmaking over luncheon, eh? You know, dear, one of the grand things about growing old is that you can sit in the grandstand, a curious and interested spectator, cheering the person you want to win. And having been on the field, fighting, bleeding and hurt, you're happy enough to sit comfortably in the grandstand. I'm going fishing this afternoon after I make a few calls."

"Just a man about town . . ."

"You made me what I am today." He laughed. "That song is from my generation. You wouldn't know it."

TIRED STOCKS STILL TRYING FOR RECOVERY

Traders Go Easy Before Long Week-End Holiday; Hope Shown by Business.

(By Associated Press)

NEW YORK — Leading stocks continued to reach for recovery in today's market but the majority acted a bit tired.

Dealings slowed to a crawl after a relatively slow opening and, near the second hour, fractional advances were fairly well distributed.

In view of the Monday Labor Day recess and tomorrow's short session, brokers said, some traders lightened commitments. Others still held to a stand-off position pending more conclusive war developments, action of congress on the tax bill and the selective service measure. Business items again were hopeful but apparently without any great influence on speculative sentiment.

Encouraging marketwise were figures of the treasury department indicating a sharp decline in the liquidation of American securities by the British.

Studied was the Dun & Bradstreet summary disclosing another downturn in the country's bank clearings. For the week ended yesterday the total was placed at 14 per cent under the 1939 comparative increases were registered for New Orleans, Detroit, Atlanta, Pittsburgh, Portland, Ore., and Cleveland.

LEGAL NOTICE TO CONTRACTORS

Sealed proposals will be received by the Board of Richland County Commissioners at their office in the Richland County Courthouse, Mansfield, Ohio, up until twelve o'clock (12: noon) E. S. T., Friday, September 20th, 1940, for the general construction work, plumbing work and electric work for the erection of a canine shelter (dog pound) to be located in the N. W. corner of the Fairgrounds, in said county.

Documents including drawings, specifications, bidding blanks, instruction to bidders, etc., are on file with the Commissioner's Clerk and may be obtained from Harry J. Baumenschenkel, the Architect 311 Walpark Building, Mansfield, Ohio.

Proposals shall not be withdrawn until (30) days have elapsed after closing time for the receipt of bids. Proposals will be publicly unsealed and read aloud at the Commissioner's office immediately after closing time for the receipt of bids.

Proposals shall be written only on the bidding blanks to be furnished by Commissioners. Separate totals for labor and separate totals for materials, typewritten or pen and ink, properly signed, accompanied by a bidder's bid bond and/or a certified check on a solvent bank in the amount of five (5) per cent of the total work bid upon, payable to Norman Wolfe, County Auditor, sealed, endorsed "Canine Shelter Bid," addressed to Richland County Commissioners and filed with the Commissioner's Clerk.

The successful bidder will be required to furnish a satisfactory bond in the amount of 50% of the contract price.

All wages paid for labor in the construction of said Canine Shelter or in the performance of the contract for construction of said Canine Shelter shall be in accordance to the schedule of prevailing wages as published by the Department of Industrial Relations of the State of Ohio for this locality and in pursuance to Section 17-1 to 17-6 of the General Code of Ohio.

The Board of County Commissioners reserves the right to reject any or all bids and to waive informalities.

BRITISH BOMBS KILL 10 DURING RAID ON BERLIN

Attack Centers on Section Within Two Miles of Reich Offices.

activity in the vicinity of Britain began to come in. About 4 p. m. German planes were believed to be over three southeast coast towns.

Interest here centered in the attack on Berlin.

Berlin reports said that two British bombs had dropped in Kottbusser Strasse in southeast Berlin. This is only about a mile and a half from the Unter Den age the correspondents saw was to Gwellings and pavement.

In one block in crowded Kottbusser street, where the dead included a woman and a 16-year-old girl and three other persons killed in one building, about a dozen 100-pound high explosive bombs and an even larger number of incendiaries apparently fell.

An air raid warden directing people to shelters literally was cut down, a bomb fragment severing both legs. The dead and injured were on the sidewalks or in doorways.

Incendiary bombs set fire to three flats at the same moment. Other incendiaries, dropping into a gaping hole ripped in the roof of a building by a high explosive bomb, started fires through one house.

HIT PORTSMOUTH

BERLIN — (AP) — Swift units of the German air force dived at the British naval base of Portsmouth in the forenoon today in a surprise attack, a writer-flier for the German official news agency reported.

The bombers, dive-bombers and fighters made "a sea of flames" around Portsmouth harbor, the correspondent for the agency, DNB, reported, despite an ever-increasing fire from anti-aircraft batteries.

COUNCIL GROUP WOULD UNIFY LEVY INTERESTS

Seeks Co-ordination of Five Departments to Earmark Proposed Tax.

An effort to co-ordinate the interests back of the proposed one mill levy will be made in the next few days, following plans made yesterday afternoon at a meeting of the city council finance committee and city administration heads.

C. N. Shultz, a member of the finance committee, was appointed to contact heads of the interests that will be participants in the levy—the police and fire departments, the airport, the recreational board and the city playgrounds—and to secure their views on a joint operating expense.

Mayor W. J. Locke said today that a levy must go before the voters specifically earmarked and that the only method of presenting all of these levies at one time was to group them as an operating fund and then allocate the fund after it is collected. He said it would be inadvisable to try to pass all five levies separately.

If the levy is presented to voters on the November ballot, the legislation will have to be prepared in time to present to city council next Tuesday night, Locke said, and it will have to be passed at that time.

At yesterday's meeting it was also decided to make one more appeal to property owners to put new street numbers on their homes before the city is forced to do it for them and assess the charge against the property on the tax duplicate. W. C. Statler, city engineer, said there were about 300 property owners in the city who have not yet complied with the house-numbering ordinance.

Locke said the legislation on numbering houses was mandatory and that the city is empowered to enforce it.

The finance committee took no action yesterday on setting up an office to enforce the roof drainage legislation, but the matter was discussed and probably will be brought before council Tuesday night.

ANCIENT FOSSIL HOUSED IN SHED

Foot of Red Mammoth Exhibited on Campus of University Of Alaska at Juneau.

(By Associated Press)

JUNEAU, Alaska—The buildings of the University of Alaska at Fairbanks are plain and strictly utilitarian, and in a nondescript shed on the grounds of this "far thest north" college you may be allowed to touch the foot of a red wooly mammoth.

"Careful," cautioned Otto William Geist, paleontologist in the employ of the American museum of natural history, New York, "that hair pulls off easily."

Geist probably has done more digging into the soil of Alaska, a paleontologist's paradise, than any other man in the world. He has brought out the bones of mammoths, camels, lions, saber tooth tigers and other animals, some of whose warm-latitude relatives today have essentially the same bone structure.

The wooly mammoth's bones alone weigh almost two tons. He was not native to Alaska alone. Scientists in Siberia have found mammoths, frozen intact, in the eternal ice. Geist figures those found here lived recently as geological ages go—from 20,000 to 40,000 years ago.

Interior Alaska's sub-soil, always frozen, gives up the bones during hydraulic gold mining operations. The foot of the mammoth Geist discovered was that of a baby. A study by Dr. R. W. Chaney, of the University of California, tends to show the climate of Alaska has not changed appreciably from what it was in the Pleistocene age. The animals found today in Alaskan muck apparently were generously coated with hair to protect them from the winter cold.

MANCHUKUO HAS 7,000 SHRINES

Buddhist Temples Lead All Others in Religious Building Census.

PEKING, China—(INS)—Completing a census begun in 1938, the government of Manchukuo revealed the high degree of religious freedom of that new state in its registration of 7,000 Chinese and Japanese shrines and temples and Christian churches.

Leading all other forms of religious structures are Buddhist temples with 2,249 of Chinese and 179 Japanese priests.

The purely Chinese Taoist temples come next in order, numbering 1,756.

Christian churches come third with 150 Japanese and 400 Chinese. These latter include of course, those presided over by American and European Protestants and Catholic sects.

Chinese Moslem houses of worship registered are given as 190. There are no Japanese Mohammedan institutions in Manchukuo.

Lastly listed are 92 Japanese Shinto shrines. The Chinese have never been given to this purely Japanese form of religious belief.

While permitting the freedom of religious worship and erection of religious structures, Manchukuo does threaten a stiff fine for anyone who establishes, abandons or merges a temple, shrine or church without permission.

Clemson College Catalogue to Take 30 Years.

CLEMSON, S. C.—(U.P.) Members of the Clemson college department of entomology have a little project they work on in their spare time. They catalogue insects.

The project, so far, has taken 15 years. And another 15 years face the department before all the species in the state have been classified.

Prof. Franklin Sherman, department head, said approximately 600,000 insects have been individually examined and 5,982 varieties have been listed. Some 3,000 of the species are classified as harmless, Sherman said, although 99 per cent of all damage done is caused by only 300 species.

Sherman said the department expects to find nearly 15,000 different species of insects by 1955.

GALION — Newton Fry, 81, of Marion, was treated at the Good Samaritan hospital late Tuesday for cuts and bruises. He was injured in an automobile accident at the intersection of Routes 30-S and 61, a mile east of Galion, when cars driven by Joe Luca, 49, cook at the Crestline Y. M. C. A., and Andrew C. Arndt, 35, a Marion florist collided.

AN INDEPENDENT NEWSPAPER

MANSFIELD, OHIO, THURSDAY, AUGUST 29, 1940.

If August is warming up for a ninth-inning rally there's only a couple of days left for it.

Item reveals that in Russia the average is one bath in 18 months—which may explain why godliness is also scarce.

One savant thinks that in another two billion years all atmosphere will have disappeared from the earth—but there are more immediate things to worry about.

Senate Majority Favors Conscription

BY A VOTE of 58 to 31 the United States senate has expressed approval of selective conscription as a means of securing sufficient manpower to bring the defensive machinery of this country to the point of protecting it against aggression by any foreign power or combination of powers.

Last night's vote on the Burke-Wadsworth compulsory military training and service bill, as finally amended, may be regarded as a decisive expression of a considerable senate majority on this highly controversial measure.

Opposition was emphatic and probably entirely sincere, based on differences of opinion as to the urgency of such a precedent-breaking action as is involved in compelling several million young men between the ages of 21 and 31 to law aside other matters for a year in order to gain training needed for military service in the event of a defensive war being forced upon this country.

Authority for the government to take over and operate any manufacturing plant or facility deemed essential to national defense appears logically associated with the proposed draft of manpower, for preservation of the nation must be regarded as taking precedence over either individual convenience or financial consideration.

Wanton slaughter of people and widespread destruction and seizure of property in Europe and in unprepared China have evidenced the extent to which ruthless aggressive warfare can be carried under the impetus of totalitarian and militaristic theories of government.

It is the apparently well grounded belief of President Roosevelt and many other men in close contact with developments of the past few months in Europe that the United States and its associated nations of the Western Hemisphere are so seriously menaced at this time that immediate steps toward adequate military preparedness must be taken.

Compulsory military training of several million young men is considered an essential part of the defense program. The bill as passed by the senate now goes to the lower house of congress for consideration, and anticipated approval.

Freedom's Worst Enemies

THERE are clear lessons to be learned from events abroad by Americans awake to them. And many Americans are trying to profit by them. One of these is Daniel J. Tobin, international president of the Teamsters Union. Speaking at the dedication of a new union hall Mr. Tobin said:

"Let us, who still have the freedom granted us by democracy—who still have the freedom to vote—put an end to dishonesty. Let us clean up the labor movement, but let us also clean out the wrongdoers in every other branch of our public life. They are the real enemies of our freedom."

The people of the remaining democracies could feel more certain of the preservation of their freedom if it required only the ending of Hitlerism and the defeat of Hitler. But they know that the democracies which have already collapsed weakened their national strength by internal dissension, selfishness, dishonesty, indifference to the common good.

Wrongdoers in labor in the United States, although few in number, have harmed their fellow workers and their country to a dangerous degree. Wrongdoers in other branches of public life are indeed the enemies of freedom. And so are citizens who wash their hands of the responsibilities of democracy while demanding all its rights and privileges.

Mussolini Tries Come-Back

MUSSOLINI, who started the dictatorship system that was taken over by Hitler, has been so far outdistanced by his German pupil that he hardly seems in the running any more. Some of his recent operations, though, give an impression that he is trying to get back his prestige by imitating his protege.

Thus his recent bullying of Greece, with the apparent intention of inciting armed resistance, on which he would justify invasion and seizure of the country, is quite in the Hitler manner. Likewise with his thrusts into upper Egypt, British Somaliland and Kenya, although the Duce with his Mediterranean tradition would probably liken them to the procedure of Alexander the Great.

Another Dollar-a-Year Man

NELSON A. ROCKEFELLER, son of John D. Rockefeller, jr., has been appointed by President Roosevelt as coordinator of commercial and cultural relations among the American republics at a salary of a dollar a year. The founder of the family fortune made more than that even when a small boy. Probably the family will help with young Nelson's board and other expenses.

Really, it's not a bad idea, the way so many prominent Americans are resigning cabinet ministry and sons of captains of industry are entering the public service nowadays, because they want to be helpful to country in a critical time.

This Mr. Rockefeller is a big business man in his own right, and is dropping his own enterprises and clearing the decks to give all his time to an important public job. It is a new kind of precedent for a citizen to create an important and [illegible] in the other Americas.

Also [illegible] present generation turn easily and gracefully to [illegible] jobs. Their fathers gave money; they [illegible] time.

Also Impounds License Plates

A CLEVELAND municipal judge has hit upon an idea [illegible] and make temporary suspension of [illegible] more effective.

Not only does he [illegible] the license of drivers in cases [illegible] convicted, but he requires surrender of their [illegible] during the period of suspension. This is [illegible] as the law does not specify [illegible] a person [illegible] up his plates while barred from [illegible] a car.

In view of the [illegible] of instances in which persons have been detected driving a car while their license is suspended, impounding the plates seems quite sensible procedure and is recommended for local consideration.

AFTER THE HOUSE BURNS DOWN

Knox Placed In An Odd Situation

—By JACK STINNETT

SINCE Frank Knox's original connection with it, dating back several years the Chicago Daily News usually has been referred to as HIS paper.

Frank Knox

Consequently, considering that Frank now is President Roosevelt's secretary of the navy, quite a bit of a sensation was created a few days ago, by the News' announcement that it was pro-Willkie in the pending national political campaign.

To be sure, Frank always had been known as a Republican up to the time of his appointment to a Roosevelt cabinet post. In fact, the president, desiring to make his administration somewhat a coalition affair in the present critical state of world conditions, undoubtedly picked him partly because of his Republicanism.

Nevertheless it evidently did seem queer to most folk to think of a big newspaper publisher as a member of the F. D. R.'s official family with his paper (if it IS his paper) plugging for Wendell Willkie.

Secretary Knox himself appears to have considered that the situation called for a few words of clarification, for he issued a statement to the effect that he was on leave of absence from the News while holding his navy portfolio, and, while his leave continues, isn't directing its policy.

All the same plenty of people still expressed the opinion that it was peculiar.

Answer to the Puzzle.

Maybe the answer to the puzzle is that the Chicago Daily News isn't, outright, Secretary Knox's paper.

He has a substantial financial interest in it unquestionably, but not a majority interest, though he was put in, as general manager, as the majority interests' representative.

He's a first rate newspaperman. Also an excellent businessman. In those two capacities (which are rather an exceptional combination) all accounts are that he delivered the goods to the majority's entire satisfaction. Newspaper gossip, however, is to the purport that, though a Republican, he became so friendly with Chicago's local Democratic organization that the News' majority ownership didn't like it. It's even whispered that there was majority talk of pushing him overboard as general manager.

Naturally it wouldn't have been to his professional advantage to be unloaded in such fashion—might have prejudiced his subsequent career.

But a man's future career isn't prejudiced by the circumstance that he's been a member of the cabinet. That's good advertising for him. An ex-cabinet member, looking for a new job, has only to mention that he IS an ex-cabinet member to get respectful attention.

Secretary Knox may not be an ex-cabinet member for quite a while, either. If President Roosevelt's re-elected, presumably Frank will stay on as navy secretary for another four years. Then he'll have a distinguished past to recommend him for some new berth. And even if Willkie's elected and Frank's supplanted as a cabineteer, he still will have it to his credit that he was chosen for a cabinet position at one of the most critical junctures in the world's history. That will be a heap sight better than merely having been canned from the Chicago Daily News' general management—simply assuming, for the sake of argument, that that was the News' majority ownership's notion as to Frank's case.

Very Largely Speculation.

All this is mainly speculation, except as to the item that Secretary Knox isn't the out-and-out owner of the Chicago Daily News. That's pretty well established.

That the Chicago Democratic machine, wishing Frank well, was the outfit which suggested him to Washington as a suitability for the navy portfolio is pure surmise, though there are those who are to be heard surmising it, just as a matter of unadulterated guesswork.

Yet it's impossible to get away from the oddity of the News' Willkie-esque attitude, if Frank actually is the boss of the paper.

Washington Merry-Go-Round

FDR Explains Refusal to Debate; Canada May Train Pilots In U. S.

—By DREW PEARSON and ROBERT S. ALLEN

WASHINGTON—Roosevelt's concentration on foreign and defense problems was not the only reason he refused to debate with Wendell Willkie. That was what he told newsmen, but there was another reason which he dropped to Representative Adolph Sabath of Illinois, chairman of the house rules committee.

The two were conferring on congressional matters, when Sabath remarked that he heartily approved of the rebuff to the GOP standard bearer. "You did right," the white-crested dean of the house said, "but at that I'll bet you would have liked to take him on."

The president laughed and replied by relating this experience: As a young lawyer just getting started in New York, he said he was retained to handle a difficult civil case. The opposing lawyer was a very effective jury pleader and completely outshone his youth rival in the argument to the jury.

"But he made one fatal mistake," the president continued. "He talked too much."

The attorney orated to the jury for several hours, and as he thundered on, Roosevelt noticed that the jury wasn't paying much attention. So, playing a hunch when his turn came, he rose and made this brief statement:

"Gentlemen, you have heard the evidence. You also have listened to my distinguished colleague, a brilliant orator. If you believe him and disbelieve the evidence, you will have to decide in his favor. That's all I have to say."

The jury was out only five minutes and brought in a verdict for Roosevelt's client.

"That was a good lesson, Adolph," the president concluded, "and I think it applies in this case. My distinguished opponent is over-extending himself. He is making statements that he can never back up. It is not necessary for me to answer him. I am leaving my case with the great American jury."

Note—Senator George Norris, father of TVA, who recently blasted Willkie as "a second Insull," feels that Roosevelt has a hard fight before him and strongly urged him to make a transcontinental campaign tour. The president's reply was that he couldn't go farther than six hours from Washington. Norris now plans to make a series of campaign talks in October.

Canadian Pilots.

ONE matter discussed by the joint U. S.-Canadian Defense board at its first meeting in Ottawa was the training of Canadian pilots in the United States this winter.

Canada's severe weather makes winter training extremely difficult for aviators. As one Canadian board member expressed it, "Your worst weather conditions are better than our best." Also, Canada is seriously handicapped by lack of training planes and instructors.

The big pilot training program being conducted by the U. S. government has made it hard for Canada to obtain trainer planes and instructors here.

So the Dominion is eager to set up a large school somewhere in the U. S. south or southwest where Canadian youths could receive flying instruction this winter. If the necessary facilities can be obtained, Canada is ready to send 5,000 men south for training.

All the costs would be borne by Canada. The only thing desired by Canada is the privilege of establishing the school on U. S. soil.

Note—The U. S. army has trained military flyers from South American countries for several years, though only in very small numbers.

Guns for Brazil.

THE United States has done a lot of talking about Latin American co-operation, and has invited various Pan-American leaders to go on junkets throughout this country. But here is an example of how Good Neighbor co-operation sometimes works out in a concrete case.

Four years ago Brazil tried to buy or lease some of our over-age destroyers, but being unable to do so decided to build them herself out of American materials. So she ordered boilers, engines, all sorts of equipment in the U. S. and shipped them to Rio.

However, she was unable to buy any naval guns. Very few American companies make naval guns, so Brazil turned to the United States navy, which makes its own guns at Washington, D. C. But the U. S. navy was not allowed to sell. So a law was introduced permitting American countries to buy military and naval equipment from the United States government. But this bill was hung up in congress largely through the vote of one senator, Vandenberg of Michigan.

Therefore, Brazil, having completed her destroyers and needing the guns badly, sent a special mission to the United States to negotiate with the National Forge and Ordnance company. The deal involved from $1,500,000 to $2,000,000, but National Forge dickered and delayed. Then as the contract was about to be signed, its president died and negotiations had to begin all over again.

Meanwhile congress has passed the bill permitting the purchase of guns from the U. S. navy, but now the navy needs all the guns for itself.

So with Brazil's destroyers now launched, construction of their guns is not even started. No wonder the Brazilians are listening sympathetically to a German offer to sell them $60,000,000 worth of guns and munitions at one-third what they would cost in the United States.

Political Chaff.

GOP INSIDERS credit Governor Baldwin of Connecticut with persuading former Under Secretary of Commerce Edward Noble to declare for Wendell Willkie. Noble figured this would help him get the GOP senatorial nomination, but the inside word is that Connecticut party chiefs have other ideas . . . Federal Security Administrator Paul McNutt was the first choice to manage the Roosevelt-Wallace regional campaign headquarters in Chicago, but he declined. Instead he will make a nationwide speaking tour for the ticket. . . . A Willkie-Davey headquarters has been opened in Toledo under the direction of Dave Krieger, local Republican. Former Governor Martin Davey, Democratic nominee for the office this year, is cold to Roosevelt, once employed Willkie as his lawyer when Willkie lived in Akron. . . . Senator Joe O'Mahoney polled the highest vote ever received by a Democrat in the recent Wyoming primary. With less than half of the normal vote cast in this election, the Democrats figure they have a good chance to carry the state in November.

Man About Manhattan

—By GEORGE TUCKER

NEW YORK—Sometimes, in the dusky glow of a nightclub, someone whispers a story that startles you — and leaves you numb. Such a story was whispered on Broadway the other night as a famous comedian was regaling his audiences with mirthful recitals that ran right up to and leaped over the risque border.

Sometimes this comedian talks with a sort of lisp. This is because his lip at one time was badly cut. If you stand quite close to him, and look for them, you can see dozens of little thin lines that show through his make-up. Those lines were made with razors. It was a close call. It happened before repeal in Chicago.

The story went something like this. He worked for a club, or maybe it was a restaurant. Whether you wanted to or not, you had to do business with one of the mobs during the prohibition years, if you worked in Chicago.

The man was approached by the representative of a rival mob. He suggested that it would be a fine thing if he, the comedian, used his influence to induce the club's owners to switch their business to his (the representative's) mob.

But when you walked out on one mob, its members went after you. If you refused to walk out, the rival mob usually found time to drop in for a little business.

One night this comedian went to his home and found four of "the boys" waiting for him. He knew them all. "We hate to do this pal," they told him. "But it's the boss' orders." Then they went at him with razors. Somehow, he lived. But they cut him from head to foot. The doctors found 56 slashes on his body when they got him to the hospital.

ONE of the nicest workmen among handsmen, from the spectator's viewpoint, is Tommy Dorsey. When he plays before hotel dining room audiences, as he has been all summer at the Astor, his shows are simple and not too long, but they have finesse. Maybe finesse isn't the word. I mean, you see everything you want to see, and that's all. It doesn't tire you to look at it. There are no acrobatics. A girl comes out and dances. She is pretty and she is a good dancer. Then the Five Pipers gather around a microphone and sing his great hit version of "I'll Never Smile Again." This always draws a spontaneous burst of applause from the crowd. It is really a great presentation, and heart-breakingly beautiful.

LAST night, when this happened, the spectators received an extra thrill, because Tommy said, "Sitting across the room at the moment is the little girl who wrote this song, Ruth Lowe, and I want you to meet her." He went over then, the light following him, and shook hands with a little blond girl whose eyes sparkled like sapphires. Just at that moment the waiter set a cake before her, because it was her birthday, and the orchestra played "Happy Birthday To You." She seemed almost too little to be there, but then of course that was only an impression. She wasn't too little because she is a pianist, and she has been married, and her husband is dead, and it was his memory, they say, that inspired the song.

The Movies And Your Eyes.

—By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.

HOW much harm is done to the eyes by reading on trains, airplanes, automobiles or by any kind of flickering light? How much harm is done by reading in dim light or by long sessions at the movies?

No permanent harm, all but the most fussy oculists will agree.

True, it requires more energy and strain than reading in a steady light. If you walk over a rough road up hill and down, over stones and in and out of holes, you are more tired than covering the same distance on the level. But you do not do any permanent damage to your legs.

No Permanent Damage.

So flickering lights cause more and more rapid muscular adjustments and the procedure tires your eyes. But it doesn't "hurt" them, as parents are apt to say in warnings. It does no permanent damage. Headaches result and general bodily fatigue, and heavy, burning feelings of the eyes.

For those who have visual defects such attempts may have more serious consequences. Near-sighted persons, particularly under 30, when the eyeball is soft, may put such a muscular strain on the eyeball as to result in increased and permanent damage.

This applies also to people with a lack of proper muscular balance. This does not mean those with a definite squint, but simply so much muscle weakness that the eyes can be thrown off balance by excessive, muscular work and strain.

The minimum amount of illumination that is supposed to be necessary at present for reading is placed at 10 foot-candles. An electric light and any reasonable amount of daylight will furnish this.

The movies present a special condition. With modern technique the amount of flicker in a movie is almost nil. The light also is steady and sufficient. The introduction of talkies has also made an improvement. The characters most of the time in modern talkies don't move around as much as they used to in the movies.

This does not apply, of course, to the moments when they are falling over cliffs, etc. But in most situations they must stand still while delivering their speeches in order to get the idea over. Then in the old days your eyes had to endure changes from a brightly illuminated scene to a dark chart with the legend on it. This has been eliminated by the talkies.

The consequence is that experts say the movies are the least straining of all methods of using the eyes. I know people who can go to the movies for hours, but invariably have a headache if they read 50 pages of print.

A Farmer's Diary

Handful of Woods Dirt

—By CALVIN A. BYERS

THE southeast wind brought rain—soft steady showers that touched the suffering roots of the complaining grass and gave them life again. Even a few hours and the fragrance of moistened soil was everywhere. Pools in low spots had streams of constantly rising bubbles that broke in tiny sprays when they reached the surface. The big maples dripped in every gentle breeze. The gravel road which yesterday flaunted dust clouds in the strong west wind, today had a pasty surface which emitted a grinding, sloppy sound when cars went by.

I went up through the briery field into the damp fresh-scented woods. Broad leafed young oaks and poplars sheltered me as efficiently as a roof. Beneath my feet four generations of leaves had formed a cushioned floor. Below this layer of leaves was dark rich woodsy dirt, all matted with hair-like roots.

I scooped up a handful. It was soft and grainy with the smell of mould. A centipede escaped between my fingers. Three different kinds of ants were there, with several grubs. A slug crawled slowly from the heap and made a slimy trail upon my wrist, a half-grown cricket hurriedly hid below the spongy surface. A portion of a spider's web glistened in the light, but the tenant had fled.

With my thumb I reached in farther and unearthed a shagbark shell. Some squirrel had gnawed it, perhaps two years ago, and taken out the kernels. Small tips of roots like tiny hands, had entered all four chambers and drawn nourishment from the decaying hull. Farther toward the center, a tame cherry seed had sprouted, very recently. The parachute of a dandelion lay uninjured on the surface. The tiny seed was buried slightly and had already germinated—as my glass revealed. I noticed the black, hard-shelled seed of the yellow violet, lifeless seeds of last year's fall grass, three dual winged maple seeds. And when I pressed a thinner portion between my thumb and finger, I came upon a rodent's tooth, a beetle's leg and several strands of dark red hair. Strange shapes and colors of spores and seeds I did not know.

Within the hollow of my hand I held a nursery and a cemetery.

Each party is entitled to three workers, two judges and a clerk in each voting booth The election board appoints the workers from recommendations of the party central committeemen in the precincts

Recommendations must be submitted to the board by Sept 1 Underwood said or the board will take steps to name workers without the help of the party central committeemen

A number of new election employes will handle the voting at the November election although the election board urged central committeemen to retain as many of the old ones as possible since the voting is expected to be heavy this fall and the ballots will be difficult to count

A total of 552 precinct judges and clerks will handle the balloting this year, six more than last fall The six additional ones will be in a new precinct in Woodland F of the second ward The precinct was formed from parts of the E of the Second ward and H of the First ward

Young Lawyer Takes Issue With Writer

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

"Dear Miss Fairfax:

"I read with great interest and no little amazement your answer to the letter of J. G. published a couple of weeks ago. The girl J. G. said if her boy friend were out of work and couldn't afford to take her places, she wouldn't mind one bit. But he's a college graduate and has a good profession.

"In your answer you say: 'As the young man has a good profession it can't be lack of money that's making him so house-bound.'

"As to that, let me say I'm a college graduate, four years at university and three years at law school. I have a good profession (attorney at law). Yet I don't have enough money to buy a light lunch for a humming bird.

"Just because a man is a college graduate and has a good profession doesn't mean that his pockets are lined with anything except the usual cloth. People think because you're a professional man you're making money. They don't realize that three-fourths of the persons opening your office door during the first two or three years of practice are bill collectors and not clients. C. E."

He should give himself a little more time before becoming discouraged.

And I wonder if he hasn't overlooked some of the well-traveled roads young lawyers take in getting themselves established. It just happens that I have a wider acquaintance among young lawyers than among those of other professions, and have heard them tell repeatedly how they've caught on.

One way is to visit judges' chambers and tell them they will take cases for clients unable to pay. I realize that the young man has got to eat and keep a roof over his head while this unprofitable business is in progress. If he makes a good showing in the courts it will not be long before he has clients who are willing to pay.

He can join a political party, and I am not giving away any state secrets when I say that all political parties have a way of looking after their own. If the young man will get out and hustle for his political party, his party will do something for him.

Another way to avoid these humming-bird lunches is to ally one's self to civic agencies such as the Legal Aid society, where many a bright young lawyer has discovered an entering wedge to profitable legal business.

In law, as in medicine and the other professions, the personal equation counts for so much. An agreeable young man who dresses decently is always in demand whether he has money to spend or not.

I should like to show my correspondent scores of letters from girls writing something to this effect: "If he'd just come and see me once in a while, I'd be delighted. I know he hasn't money to spend, and I don't want him to spend money on me."

Marriage Meddlers

By ADELE GARRISON

Continuation of "Married Comrades"

I bit back the impulse to shout at Philip Veritzen, through the telephone. "But I am Mrs. Graham, right here." From long experience I know his temperamental irascibility, and his voice betrayed that he was in the throes of what would be called a "temper tantrum" in a child. Prudence bade me let the hotel switchboard operator manage him, and for the next few minutes I felt as if I had a front seat at a cinema.

"But Mr. Veritzen," the operator began, "I think—"

"Madame!" the great impresario said. "I am not at all interested in what you think. I am telling you that I do not wish to speak to anybody who may be calling. I wish you to get me the Graham farmhouse. Can you understand that?"

His tone implied a belief that the young woman's proper habitat was not a telephone switchboard.

"I'm sorry, Mr. Veritzen," she said, "but I'm trying to tell you—"

"Have I asked you to tell me anything?" he demanded. "When I desire any information from you, I shall let you know my wishes immediately without circumlocution—"

I grinned delightedly to myself. His last word is one of his pets, always used when he is berating somebody.

"Mr. Veritzen, won't you please listen?" she pleaded.

"I will listen to one thing," he said loftily, "and that is the voice of someone from the Graham farmhouse."

His sonorous voice was a bit raucous now — he was getting hoarse, and the girl was near nervous exhaustion. Mustering up her courage and talking so rapidly he could not interrupt her, she made another attempt to get the truth through.

"But Mrs. Graham is on the line! She's the party who's calling you."

He was silent for fully two seconds, while I wondered if rage or shock or possible heart failure was rendering him speechless. Then he spoke, his voice a diapason rumble.

"Do you mean to tell me that you have been keeping Mrs. Graham waiting all this time while you made such stupid, futile, clumsy attempts to tell me that news? Your manager shall hear of this. Where is Mrs. Graham? Has she been overhearing this conversation?"

His last words were hurried, and there was a touch of chagrin in them. But the girl knew better than to tell him the truth.

"No, oh! no!" she prevaricated desperately. "My line here was closed off. She's on an outside one. I'll get her on at once."

"See that you do," he said loftily but with patent relief, and then I heard the snapping of a switch key and the operator's voice.

"Mrs. Graham!"

"Yes, my dear," I said encouragingly. "My sympathy, and my congratulations!"

"I forgot to shut my switch, or you wouldn't have had to hear all this," she said with a nervous little laugh. "But may I ask you not to let him know you overheard him?"

BARCLAY ON BRIDGE

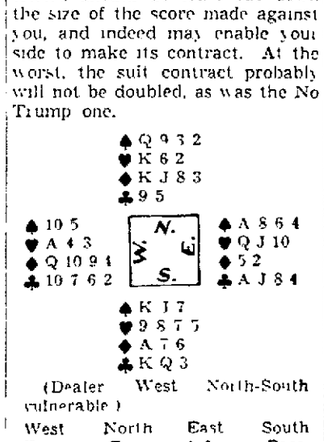
"The Authority on Authorities"

CUT DOWN THE LOSS

If you have tried a tentative No Trump bid during the auction and one of the opponents has doubled you, it usually is sound to take out into some suit of your partner's for which you hold adequate support, even though it be a minor, and you increase the contract by one. The extra safety provided by ability to stop the run of some suit by ruffing, plus the value of the ruffing trick or tricks, should at least cut down the size of the score made against you, and indeed may enable your side to make its contract. At the worst, the suit contract probably will not be doubled, as was the No Trump one.



(Dealer, West, North-South vulnerable.)

West	North	East	South
Pass	Pass	1 ♣	Pass
1 ♦	Pass	1 ♠	Pass
1 NT	Pass	Pass	Dbl
Pass	Pass	Pass

North's pass of South's delayed deductive double was, of course, a business pass because he thought the side had a better chance to score well by beating the hostile contract of its own. He felt that game could not be in the hand if South was unable to act until after the opponents had dropped the bidding.

North led the heart 6 which seemed likely to be his partner's suit. The 10 was played next the high 8 signal so North felt encouraged. West laid down the club A, then the 4 to the Q. South's heart 5, was finessed by West to the K, and North's 2 knocked out the heart A. The club 6 went to the K, the heart 9 was cashed, then the diamond A won and a diamond went to the J. North then led the spade 2 to the A. The club 10 was then cashed, but the defenders took the last three tricks with the diamond K and two spades, setting the contract two.

If West on his last turn had bid 2-Clubs, the side could have been set only one trick, and that probably not doubled. One spade, one heart, two diamond and two club tricks are all that could have been taken by the defense, barring unusual developments in the play.

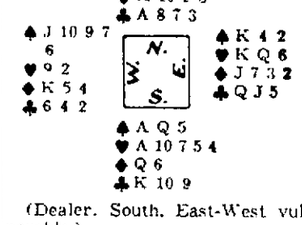
Tomorrow's Problem.



(Dealer, South, East-West vulnerable.)

After South, seeking 4-Hearts, takes two spades, ruffs a spade, leads a heart to the Q and A, then another to the J and K, what card should East lead and why?

HOROSCOPE

For Friday, Aug. 30.

All manner of activities should move at high tempo on this day, with the energies and faculties keyed up to very expansive and important objectives. It may be that quick action of an audacious or drastic nature may be called for in connection with public or group activities.

Those whose birthday it is may find themselves immersed in a year of dynamic events with bold, audacious, prompt and even drastic action needed to successfully cope with openings or opportunities of major importance. Such attack must be aggressive, decisive and prompt, with full sense of obligation as well as opportunity.

A child born on this day may have a dynamic, aggressive, audacious and ingenious nature, with much versatility, initative and public spirited proclivities, probably of a spectacular or dominant personality.

Hollywood Speaks---

—By ROBBIN COONS

By GLENN TRYON
Universal Associate Director.

(Ad-libbing for vacationing Robbin Coons)

HOLLYWOOD—I am very timid. (I understand it is always good to begin with an element of surprise.) I am timid about telling columnists what they should put in their columns. I believe I am one of the few people who never said, "Now if I were writing a column, I would say so-and-so."

The reason I am timid is because I am what is known as a cab wit. A cab wit is a fellow who when he gets home suddenly thinks of the screaming dialogue he should have gotten off in the taxicab a half hour before, but didn't.

We in the movie business are supposed to shower down with scintillating stuff at any given moment. In my defense I can only say that I try to be a good listener. I listen when fellow members of the flicker industry expatiate on what's wrong with it. I never try to answer them. Privately, I think the trouble with the movies is that too many people are saying, "The trouble with the movies is—"

I have a little allegory saved up that deals with this subject. I have a relative who likes it so here goes.

Doctors have studied the cure of disease for centuries. But, once they've found a cure, do they call it corny and throw it out the window? Not at all, my friends. They apply the rules they have laboriously learned.

Now in Hollywood it seems to me that too often we are prone to take our hard-learned rules and call them corny. (And here is old Uncle Glenn telling what's wrong with the movies.)

The fact is that corn is tried and true material that always has proved the foundation of good entertainment. Naturally, our application of the rules—all right, then, our use of corn—is often wrong. We aren't dealing with a commodity bought in buckets. But you can make book on this: When an idea misfires the fault will lie in the way the rules of entertainment were applied.

As a prime, I learned the rules the hard way. I began as a youth and my energy and sincerity passed for acting. As the old timers say, I was selling teeth and hair. Time went on, and I was compelled to learn the rules of acting, only to discover, when they finally were mastered, that I had become a ham. This is a dreadful thing, or maybe I don't need to tell you.

I either had to tenderize myself, or quit. I finally tossed overboard everything I had learned. I consciously began trying not to "act," but the rules I had acquired became an unconscious undercurrent to my words and action. That's acting. It's not being natural, but the ability to appear natural. It is not technique, but ability to apply technique without seeming to do so.

Well, I might add that I'm trying to use the same system on stories and scripts. At the moment I'm engrossed in "Hired Wife," which William A. Seiter is producing and directing at Universal with Rosalind Russell, Brian Aherne and Virginia Bruce.

Oh, yes, one of the rules is always leave 'em laughing. But I've already told you.

I'm a cab wit.

SHIPYARDS AT CLEVELAND AND LORAIN ACTIVE

Navy Order for 12 Vessels Means First Building Since 1924.

(By United Press)

CLEVELAND — The American Shipbuilding Co's yards here which have not turned out a ship since 1924, today were teeming with activity as crews of workmen prepared the yards for construction of anti-submarine net layers and tenders

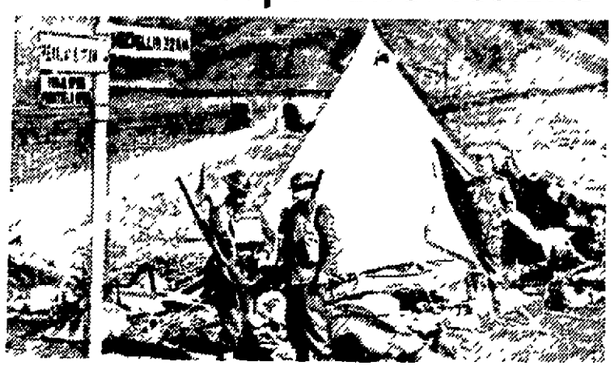
Actual construction of the boats will begin next month Six of 12 boats ordered by the navy will be built at the Cleveland yards and six at the Lorain yards where preparations for construction also are under way

The new vessels will be completed by American shipbuilding within 10 months after actual construction begins The 12 net layers and tenders designed by the navy to provide additional harbor protection against submarines will cost $6 513 000 The boats being built by the American Shipbuilding Co are part of a new fleet of 20 or more of this type boat They will be powered by Diesel engines contract for which has not yet been awarded It is believed the engines probably will be built by the Cleveland Diesel engine division of the General Motors Corp

The new type boat is 150 feet long with a 500-ton rating

Resumption of shipbuilding activities by the local firm in the Cleveland yards is expected to be only the beginning of a long-range defense program that will call for many additional smaller craft It is reported that the navy department will favor Great Lakes builders in the construction of the smaller craft since none of the large vessel work can be done inland due to the 13-foot draught limitations of the St Lawrence river

British Troops Patrol Iceland



Any Canadian-bound German bombers which might decide to use Iceland as a landing field would be due for an unpleasant surprise. These British and Canadian soldiers, members of the British army of occupation would form a very vigorous reception committee These soldiers are seen patrolling a road near Reykjavik, Iceland which the British have occupied since Hitler's bloodless conquest of Denmark

Only six of the approximately 150 bridges spanning the Mississippi river are at or below Memphis, Tenn., some 750 miles from the stream's mouth.

UNEARTH PALACE

Alexander Raided Persian Treasure House.

CHICAGO—(INS) The story of an ancient "Fort Knox," looted 5 000 years ago by the world conqueror Alexander the Great, has been revealed in recent excavations made by the University of Chicago's expeditions in Iran, according to Dr Waldo H. Dubberstein.

A research associate in the Oriental institute maintained by the University, Dr Duberstein based his observation on a study of ruins unearthed a short time ago

"The expedition," he said, "has disclosed the great palace treasury at Persepolis which was plundered by Alexander and his soldiers and apparently burned.

"Tradition has it that 10,000 mules and 1,000 camels were required to carry away the gold, silver and precious stones stored in the palace"

There was some retributive justice in Alexander's conquest, Dr. Dubberstein added, for a large part of the treasure stored in the palace had been taken from Greece by Darius, an earlier Persian monarch

SPEEDY ACTION SEEN IN HOUSE ON DRAFT BILL

Senate Passes Measure With 58 to 31 Vote After 3-Week Debate.

3—The men called for service would be selected in an "impartial manner," and in such numbers as the president specifies. The maximum number of trainees at any one time is limited to 900,000.

The bill also provides for an increase in the basic army pay, which conscripts would receive, from $21 to $30 a month.

Exemption from service would be granted registrants who are physically or mentally unfit, who have dependents, or who are employed in necessary agricultural or industrial jobs.

If the measure should be approved in substantially the same form by the house, a registration day probably would be set by the president about 15 days after the legislation became law. Then, by Oct. 15, the army would expect to induct its first quota of conscripts, approximately 75,000 young men. If army plans materialized, 400,000 would be in training by Jan 1 and 400,000 more by April 1.

In its present state, however, the version of the Burke-Wadsworth bill now in the house committee, differs on one big point from the senate-approved measure. It would make all men between 21 and 45 subject to registration and possible service, thus widening the age bracket involved.

Some house members predicted that the "conscript industry" provision would meet strong opposition next week, but they said they anticipated little fight on another of the final changes—the amendment of Senator Adams (D-Colo.) which would extend the present aircraft profit limitation of 7 and 8 per cent to cover guns, ammunition, material and other equipment.

The Adams amendment, however, ran counter to the requests of the administration and defense commission for the suspension of the aircraft and warship profit limitations now effective. Provisions for their suspension are incorporated in the excess profits tax measure which the house took up today.

Senators explained, however, that if congress approved the proposed suspension of the profit limitations, the Adams provision automatically would become inoperative.

The "big push" on amendments to postpone immediate conscription or otherwise nullify the bill's purpose found the senate conscription forces clearly in command of the situation at all times.

Gag Rule Speeds Excess Profits Tax

WASHINGTON — (U.P.) — The house considers the amortization-excess profits tax bill today under a stringent gag rule which insures quick passage.

Carrying the ways and means committee's unanimous endorsement, the bill was allotted only two hours of debate without necessity of reading. The rule may be argued for one hour. All amendments are barred except those proposed by the committee.

The bill seeks to give industry incentives for a vast expansion of national defense production facilities and at the same time to prevent creation of "war millionaires" through the spending of more than $10,000,000,000 for rearmament.

Although the bill is not designed primarily as a revenue-raising vehicle, Rep. Jere Cooper, (D., Tenn.) chairman of the subcommittee which evolved the program, estimated it would yield about $300,000,000 on this year's corporation income, which would reflect only the beginning of the rearmament drive, and about $900,000,000 annually thereafter.

The bill applies only to corporations. It provides:

1. An amortization program authorizing manufacturers who are willing to spend money for national defense plant expansion to write off the cost in five years through deductions from taxes.

2. Suspension of the existing legal limitations on profits from government contracts for airplanes and warships.

3. An excess profits tax schedule with rates ranging from 20 to 50 per cent.

ADOPT PLAN ON PLANE ENGINES

War Department Has Agreement With United Aircraft.

WASHINGTON—(AP)—An agreement was reached between the navy and United Aircraft Corporation today for the manufacture of 17,000 airplane engines for both the army and navy at a cost of $360,000,000.

Announcing the agreement at a press conference, Secretary Knox said that it had the full approval of the war department and would cover the entire requirements of both army and navy from United Aircraft for the 1941 and 1942 fiscal years.

WALK 6 MILES ON CREEK CHECK

the city and county lawmakers and their "guests" went out to the old Campbell's Mill site on route 39 southeast of the city to start the inspection trip.

County Engineer Howard Sword took the county station wagon along, however, and there were cars available just in case they were needed.

Included in the group that started were Mayor William J. Locke, Service-Safety Director C. M. Crafton, City Engineer W. C. Statler, Court; Commissioner Guy Stewart, County Engineer Sword, and C. L. Hartenfels and E. R. Hartman, members of the Conservancy board.

Vowing that they were "in condition" for a task no bigger than that, a few members of the delegation plunged into the hike without hesitating.

Others looked at the heavy underbrush, weeds, and drift wood, and considered what the heat would do to them when they got down in the valley where there was no breeze. It was also pointed out that recent rains would make the going rougher.

Suddenly remembering his hay fever, County Commissioner Ray Hout said he would stay and keep the office open.

"There are too many big ragweeds along that creek, and besides, I quit farming to get away from them," Hout asserted. So he stayed at the courthouse. County Commissioner C. L. Mitchell is at the state fair, so he missed the trip too.

The men figured they would come through—at least the bravest of them—to the finish line at Longview avenue shortly after noon. They are scheduled to meet in a few days to map plans for the dredging which will be under the direction of the Mansfield Conservancy district. Cost of the work has been estimated at about $50,000.

GERMAN FLIERS LIMIT ATTACKS TO NIGHT RAIDS

Extensive Damage Reported In British Midlands Town, London Area Hit.

Linden and about the same distance from the huge government offices on the Wilhemstrasse. An electrical works is located close to the spot where the bombs fell.

German planes also were reported over two Welsh coast towns in mid-afternoon.

Nearly 1,000 incendiary bombs were dropped in the London area along with high explosives, but casualties were reported light. The London raid was described by the Evening News as "jay flying" in which the German planes sweep in singly over the city, then dash for home when a companion bomber arrives.

What was described as "considerable damage" was inflicted at both the Midlands and the southwest cities. It was said that 30 high explosive bombs were dropped on the Midlands town, many of them in two working class areas.

It was reported that four persons were killed in the Midlands town and some victims were believed to be still buried in the debris. Many persons, however, were dug out from shelters unhurt.

Air ministry figures on yesterday's fighting showed 28 German planes shot down. Fourteen British planes were lost with seven pilots and three gunners killed or missing.

Fire brigades, auxiliary fire fighting organizations and air raid wardens put out scores of fires caused by incendiary bombs in the metropolitan district.

The raid was the most severe of the war on London but damage was regarded as slight considering the length of the raid and the number of bombs dropped.

Usually reliable informants said that the only fatal casualties in the London area were five persons killed by a direct hit on a small surface air raid shelter.

For seven hours and 10 minutes, a record, "jitter" raiders flying singly, bombed the city. Nearly 1,000 incendiary bombs were dropped on London alone, aside from high explosive bombs.

It was increasingly indicated, experts said, that the Nazis were shifting the weight of their attack from day to night because of their heavy losses in daylight raids.

Air raid precautions squads dug in debris of two wrecked homes in one Midland town for victims. Two churches were destroyed and homes and shops damaged in one of numerous northeastern England towns attacked, and a woman was killed. In a northwest London two bombs damaged a first aid station and a home. Many incendiary bombs dropped on a southeast England town.

NORWEGIAN RAID

LONDON—(AP)—The admiralty announced today Britain's fleet air arm delivered smashing blows at German oil depots on the Norwegian coast yesterday.

A communique said the two remaining oil tanks at a depot previously attacked were hit, a motor patrol vessel was set on fire and two direct hits were scored on a 2,000-ton supply ship.

SECOND CASE

New Infantile Paralysis Victim Reported.

With the second case of infantile paralysis in three weeks reported to health authorities today, Dr. W. L. Merz, assistant city-county health commissioner warned parent to protect their children against the disease.

Dr. Merz said the latest victim was Joan Oliver, two-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Oliver, 470 West Fourth street.

The child, he said, was taken ill July 25 but that the illness had not been diagnosed until three days ago. A similiar case of the disease was reported in Lexington early this month.

Dr. Merz warned parents to keep their children out of crowds and at the first sign of a cold or sore throat to take them to a physician. He warned against the use of a nasal spray in combatting the illness.

CATTLE BURNED

Fire Sweeps Stockyards of Columbus Company.

COLUMBUS — (INS) — A few head of cattle were reported destroyed today when a three-alarm fire swept through the stockyards of the David Davies meat packing plant just west of the Columbus downtown district.

The blaze was said to have broken out in some stock pens and old sheds. Heavy smoke made fighting the fire difficult. However, the blaze was reported brought under control at about 10:30 a. m. No estimate of damage was immediately available.

SPRENG LEADS IN EARLY PLAY

Mansfielder Shoots 38, Two Over Par, in 9 Holes of Seniors' Tourney.

Among the late starters were A. D. Wolfe, Columbus, 1939 champion, and Frank Pelton, Cleveland, the winner in 1937 and 1938. Pelton lost to Wolfe in a play-off last year. Pelton is in Class E and Wolfe is in Class C (65 to 69).

Class D (60 to 64) golfers were in the majority among the early nine-hole finishers. Close behind Spreng at the turn were Earl Market, Class D, of Zanesville who had a 40; W. L. Stewart, Class D, Cambridge, with a 41, Floyd Hull, Class D, Zanesville, with a 42; David E. Carey, Class D, Zanesville, 43 and H. McFarland, Class D, Cleveland, with a 45.

T. L. Montgomery, Coshocton, in Class B (70-74) posted a nine-hole 44, as did C. C. Dickens, Bellaire, in the same class.

Mansfielders competing but who had posted no scores at noon were William M. Weldon, Harry S. Black and John Finefrock.

Also among the competitors was former governor George White of Marietta.

Contestants play 18 holes today and another 18 tomorrow.

7,000 GETTING SET FOR SCHOOL

Schedules Being Mapped For Opening of Classes on Tuesday, Wednesday.

children won't begin their "readin', writin' and 'rithmatic" until Wednesday morning.

All week school officials have been busy setting up schedules, determining size of classes, ironing out registration difficulties, and the hundred and one other things necessary before the schools open.

Jesse Beer, Senior high school principal, said today that students have been coming to the Senior high school offices in large numbers to iron out schedule difficulties. Beer, H. D. Bishop, assistant principal, and George W. Smith, a teacher, have been interviewing students all week.

Downtown stores which sell school supplies and children's clothing report that parents too are busy getting Junior ready for school. And the run on pencils, erasers, and tablets is expected to go on the increase within the next few days.

Although figures are not yet available, school officials expect one of the largest student enrollments Mansfield has ever had.

St. Peter's officials estimated that more than 1,000 students would file into the school the first day, while public school officials estimated that more than 6,000 youngsters would report to their teachers Wednesday.

Bricker, Burton McSweeney to Be In City Sunday

The annual reunion of the 37th Division, A.E.F., will bring several distinguished guests to Mansfield on Sunday, among them Governor John Bricker, who will be the guest of honor and the speaker at the banquet Sunday night.

Two other guests at the banquet will be Mayor Harold Burton of Cleveland and John McSweeney of Wooster, both of whom are candidates for United States senator this year on opposing tickets and who are members of the 37th division.

Gov. Bricker's office notified Capt. A. L. Allen, director of activities for the reunion, that the executive would be here Sunday night. An invitation to him was extended some time ago but a full calendar prevented him from accepting until today, his spokesman said.

The reunion will bring World war veterans who served with the Buckeye division, from all parts of the country to Mansfield for the three days.

Registrations will open Saturday afternoon and the final business session will be held Monday morning. About 800 are expected to attend.

PITTSBURGH—(AP) Seeking a change of name, a troubled doctor told the court he was known in various countries where he studied as Itcheks Sloms Tatz, Jizchok Sloms Tatz and Izaks Sloms Tatz.

The judge agreed to Americanize it to Irvin Sloms Tatz.

terests in southeastern Europe demand that the Balkans be kept from plunging into war on this (the Transylvania) or any other issue."

(Italian sources at Rome said Germany and Italy were only waiting to get the Balkan situation cleared up before starting a major offensive against Great Britain, with Germany attacking the British Isles and Italy the British forces in Egypt.

Italian sources also said the conference was expected to strengthen the Balkans against any further Russian expansion.)

It was believed that Germany and Italy would attempt to avoid the role of arbitrators in the Hungarian-Rumanian quarrel, but would act as "friendly mediators," getting agreements from both sides to settle the dispute themselves.

The Russian problem had been somewhat cleared up on the eve of the conference by reports from Bucharest that a truce had been called on the Russian-Rumanian border after three days of sharp fighting, caused, reportedly, by Russian raids beyond the border of Bessarabia, which they seized from Rumania two months ago, into the new Rumanian boundaries.

Greco-Italian Flare-Up Forecast

ANKARA, Turkey—(INS)—Diplomatic observers in Ankara today predicted a new Greco-Italian flare-up after the Vienna conference had disposed of the Hungarian-Rumanian border dispute.

Reports received here said that strong British naval units are now patrolling Greek waters to reinforce the Greek navy.

In anticipation of protests from Italy, Greece has called up four new classes of reservists.

Turkey likewise is preparing for eventualities. Funds have been appropriated for construction of new airdromes in various parts of the country. The government issued a manifesto calling upon all wives and brides to donate their wedding rings to a fund for purchase of war planes.

Charges Hurled By Rival Nations

BUDAPEST—(INS)—Charges and counter-charges hurled between the capitals of Hungary and Rumania today as the two Balkan nations, at odds over Hungary's claims upon Transylvania, accused each other of acts of aerial hostility.

Rumanian charge of Hungarian air attacks brought a report that Rumanian planes had carried out at least four illegal incursions over Hungarian territory.

MORE FARMERS APPLYING FOR WHEAT LOANS

County AAA Chairman Sees Number Tripled Over Last Year; 58 Filed.

Predicting that three times more Richland county farmers will apply for federal wheat loans this year than in 1939 Guy Taylor county AAA chairman said today that 58 loans totaling $9 500 already have been granted

Farmers who comply with the federal farm program are eligible for loans up to 74 cents a bushel on No 2 wheat Loans are granted on a 10-month basis to enable farmers to hold their grain for higher prices and to avoid flooding the market at harvest time

If farmers keep their wheat in storage according to government regulations until the end of the loan period, they will receive an additional seven cents a bushel for storing it, Taylor said Loans will be available until Dec. 1 Applications are handled at the county AAA headquarters in Mansfield

"With wheat at about 70 cents a bushel now a farmer could hardly afford not to apply for a loan that guarantees him 81 cents a bushel" Taylor commented

The grain on which loans are granted must be stored in government-approved bins on the farm or in elevators The farmer can sell his wheat any time he chooses if he pays back the loan from the proceeds

At the same time Taylor said Richland county farmers who signed up for the new AAA federal farm program have ordered 2 344 tons of lime to use on their farms this fall and are expected to apply a total of 7 000 tons before the end of the year

The lime will be used in the soil-building program recommended by the U S. department of agriculture, with the farmers paying an average of $1 96 per ton for it

Cost to farmers in the county will range from $1 66 to $2 17 per ton, according to the distance the lime must be shipped Taylor said It will be supplied from a plant at Oceola near Bucyrus

Orders must be turned in to the county AAA office on North Diamond street by Sept 1 the chairman added

Gulls Ape Geese, Use Airport for Emergency Roost

GREENVILLE, S C—(AP)—The Greenville airport seems to be a haven for confused birds.

First it was a flock of weary wild geese who sighted the gleaming expanse of hard-surface, mistook it for a lake and had a rude surprise when they made a graceful landing

And now it is seagulls

WPA Administrator Albert Rickman reported seeing 20 to 30 gulls at the port Like the geese he said the seagulls were wearing startled expressions and mussed tail feathers as a result of repeated efforts to settle down on what looks like water from the air

The gulls were believed blown inland by hurricane Greenville is around 225 miles from the coast

ISSUES $22,250 IN BONDS TO PAY ON STREET JOBS

City Obtains Funds to Pay For 9 Improvements; Bill Goes on Tax Charge.

Sale of $22 250 in street assessment bonds issued in anticipation of the collection of assessments on improvements on nine streets, was authorized today to the Mansfield sinking fund trustees

City council approved the sale at a special meeting at the trustees' interest rate of two and one-half per cent

The bonds issuance of which was approved at the Aug 6 council session, are to finance the property owners' share of the cost of the improvements made last year

The city treasury will be reimbursed for the funds through the collection of the special assessments on the tax duplicate

The improvements to be paid for include the paving of Woodward, Lawnview and Fairlawn avenues, the resurfacing of Second and Augustine avenues, the construction of curbs and gutters on Coleman road, and the construction of sanitary sewers on sections of Chilton avenue, Cook road, and an alley north of Ashland road.

In addition, council also authorized preliminary legislation for improvements of two other streets.

Resolutions were adopted calling for the grading and graveling of Rhine street from Sturges avenue to Wood street and the construction of a sanitary sewer on Overlook avenue

Final action of the proposals is expected to be taken at the October meeting

BLANKETY-BLANK

Censorship Extends Even to Homesite on Billboard.

LONDON—(AP)—In these days when everyone is warned not to display any geographical information that might be of military value, even advertising boards have been brought up to date. An example seenat a southern resort under the heading "Wartime Bargain":

"Beautiful detached house situated on the main road from (blank) to (blank) overlooking (blank) Bay and (blank) harbor. Five minutes' walk from the (blank) bus route, the (blank) shopping center, and the (blank) railway station."

British Nobleman Disappears After Senate Expose

LEAVES HOTEL AS D. O. J. OPENS INVESTIGATION

Sir George Paish Declares He Was Misquoted By Senator Wheeler.

BULLETIN

NEW YORK — (INS) — Sir George Paish, British economist currently under investigation because of his propaganda activities, was located at the home of friends in a New York suburb today.

(By International News Service)

WASHINGTON — Simultaneous with the department of justice's announcement that he was under investigation, Sir George Paish, bespectacled and apple-cheeked British economist, in this country to interest the public in America's entry in the war on England's side, today checked out of his hotel and left no forwarding address.

He had been registered at the Wardman Park hotel since mid-July during which time he saw President Roosevelt, Secretary of State Hull, eight senators and seven members of the house.

The justice department's announcement and Sir George's sudden departure from the capital, followed Senator Wheeler's revelation of his propaganda movements during senate debate on the conscription bill Monday. The Montana Democrat said Sir George told him:

"I am responsible for getting this country into the last war and I intend to get it into this one."

Wheeler's statement caused a furore in the senate and brought demands from Sens. Lundeen (F-L) Minn., Clark, (D) Mo., and others for an immediate investigation by the state and justice departments.

The justice department started an inquiry when investigators found Sir George did not declare his intentions to spread propaganda through personal contacts and the lecture platform when he applied for his permit to enter the country as a visitor.

They also found he had not registered with the state department as a foreign agent. The law requires all persons working in this country in the interest of a foreign government to register with the department and give full details of their activities.

The wiry Sir George, who was economic adviser to the British treasury in 1916, told reporters following Wheeler's expose of his activities in Washington, that the senator had "misquoted" him.

20 Girls Placed Under Quarantine In Paralysis Scare

NEW PHILADELPHIA—(INS)—Twenty girls were placed under quarantine in their homes today because they were present in a Girl Scout camp when another girl was stricken with infantile paralysis.

The victim of the disease was Susan Browne, 15-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Browne of New Philadelphia. Attending physicians said the child had passed the critical stage.

The quarantine was ordered by Police Chief Emery Gintz in the absence of the city health commissioner. The official acted to protect other children because 123 cases of infantile paralysis have been reported in 49 counties throughout the state since June 10.

It was the second case reported in Tuscarawas county during the past week. The first resulted in the death of 15-year-old Joseph Kuznarsky, jr., Aug. 21.

Portage County Prepares for Defense Plant

Out at Supt. of Schools W. L. Miller's office at John Simpson junior high school, some one has been keeping a watch at the telephone for several weeks now—not because they're expecting a special call, but so they will be there when the phone rings the first time. A puzzling short circuit in the office telephone line has repeatedly eluded repairmen and the phone still rings just once and then shuts off. It's a bother to anyone trying to call the office but there's a bright side too, the office secretaries have found. Some of the folks with a habit of keeping the telephone ringing when no one answers immediately, at least have an obstacle in their path now, office workers pointed out.

Detective Lee J. Remy discovered yesterday that even the youngsters know him as one of the men of the law—even if in name only. Strolling down East Sixth street sans his coat, the bulge of his service revolver in his hip pocket attracted a six-year-old colored youth. "You got a gun" the youngster commented. "If Lee Remy knows you got that he'll take it away from you and I'm going to tell the police," he added, trotting off to search for a cruiser.

One young Mansfielder took a lot of ribbing because of a statement he made to a nurse at General hospital yesterday. In a joking manner, he told the nurse that if he ever had to come to the hospital because of sickness he hoped he could have her for his nurse. The nurse, without explaining why, suddenly became convulsed with laughter and walked away. The perplexed young man turned to a friend who was standing by and asked what was the matter. "You darn fool," was the reply, "she works in the maternity ward."

The year that R. B. "Mud" Gardner has been commander of the Ohio department of the American Legion, has been the most "traveled" year of his life. When he turns over his official gavel Oct. 1 he will have traveled more than 40,000 miles the past year. Up to date he has traveled 27,000 miles by auto and 10,000 by plane and train. This week-end he attends the state conventions of Kansas and Missouri. He'll be at Sedalia, Mo., Sunday and at Emporia, Kas., Monday, and if he has time will jump to Oklahoma City before he returns. Then there is the trip to Boston in September for the national convention.

Ohio Pension Society Says Bricker 'Betrayed Trust.'

The Ohio Society of Old Age Pensioners yesterday endorsed Former Governor Martin L. Davey, Democratic gubernatorial nominee, for election this year, and denounced Governor John Bricker as having "betrayed the trust and confidence placed in him."

The action was taken by 500 delegates at the organization's convention which is being held in Columbus. The resolution was submitted by Raymond J. Jeffreys, one time employe of the present state administration.

M. J. Beery, West Dickson avenue, president of the Richland county group of old age pensioners, is attending the meeting and will give a report of the convention to his own organization at 2 p. m. Saturday when members meet at the courthouse.

The state convention re-elected T. J. Johnson, Columbus, as president; Ira Albert, Springfield, secretary-treasurer; C. B. Crawford, Cleveland, first vice president; and J. C. Haney, Zanesville, second vice president.

$100,000 LOST IN LUMBER FIRE

Apartment House Residents Driven From Homes By Cleveland Blaze.

CLEVELAND—(U.P.)—Fire destroyed 2,000,000 feet of lumber with a loss of $100,000 early today in the lumber yard of the Forest City Materials company.

The flames, which set the sky aglow with a glare that could be seen for several miles, destroyed a 10-car garage in an adjoining junkyard, damaged a small home in which an elderly couple lived, and burned the window frames on an apartment house 150 feet away.

The 35 residents of the apartment house were forced to the street.

Twelve companies responded to the five alarms turned in on the fire. Fire Chief James E. Granger termed it the worst in Cleveland since the steamship City of Buffalo was destroyed two years ago. Granger said the cause of the fire has not yet been determined.

When he saw the glare of the lumber yard burning within a stone's throw of his home, 60-year-old Arthur Talcott carried his bedridden wife to the front porch where firemen took her in charge.

Occupants of the apartment house, hurrying to the garage in the rear where their automobiles were parked, found it "hot as a blast furnace," but managed to get their cars out without damage. The garage that was destroyed was in the yard of the Forest City Auto Wrecking company just east of the fire. It contained the wreckage of 20 junked cars.

A quantity of coal was destroyed in the yard of Landerth Coal company and the rear end of a filling station was scorched. Five box cars that had been unloaded in the lumber yard yesterday were destroyed.

DRAWS $10 FINE

Motorist, Arrested After Mishap, Faces Galion Mayor.

Joe Luca, 49, arrested by highway patrolmen yesterday following an automobile crash which resulted in the injury of Newton Fry, 81, of Marion, was fined $10 and costs this morning in Mayor W. M. King's court in Galion.

Luca was found guilty of unsafe driving following testimony of patrolmen, who stated that Luca pulled out in front of a car driven by Anthony Arndt, 35, of Marion. The accident occurred on 30-S, two miles east of Galion, yesterday.

REPORTS 'POLL'

Holt Says Senate Reaction To War Declaration Sought.

WASHINGTON — (U.P.) — Sen. Rush D. Holt, (D., W.Va.) said today he had been informed "reliably" that two administration "leaders" in the senate are conducting a poll to determine how many members would vote for a war declaration against Germany.

Holt declined to reveal the names of the two members, but said that he might have more to say about it later.

RULES COMMUNIST PETITIONS OPEN TO PUBLIC EXAMINATION

CLEVELAND—(AP)—Judge Joy Seth Hurd ruled today newspaper publication of signatures to Communist party petitions does not constitute invasion of right of privacy.

He dismissed a common pleas court suit of Arnold Johnson, Communist candidate for governor of Ohio and Joseph Brandt, party organizer, who sought an injunction against such publication by a Cleveland paper. They also had asked $100,000 damages.

Judge Hurd held petitions seeking to place Communists on the state ballot in November became public records as soon as they were filed with the secretary of state at Columbus, and "can be printed or be examined by the public generally."

"Their signing was a public act for which they were responsible, and if any odium attached to signing, that was the responsibility they must bear," Judge Hurd ruled.

The paper had begun publication this week of Cuyahoga county signers of the petitions.

The paper said many of those named complained they were told only that the petitions were "to keep us out of war." It offered to print a denial for any who say they did not sign.

WOULD WITHDRAW

COLUMBUS—(AP)—Secretary of State George Neffner said today several signers of petitions to qualify Communist party candidates for the November election had requested removal of their names.

Neffner reported half a dozen persons appeared at his office and declared the petitions were misrepresented to them. One, a school teacher, asserted he was told the petitions proposed legislative redistricting of the state.

Neffner said he would hold statements of protesting signers until Sept. 6, the final date for filing, before taking action. The protests followed newspaper publication of petition signers.

FARMERS HUNT LAND TO TILL AND NEW HOME

Government Spends 2 Million For 30 Square Miles In Northern Ohio.

(By Associated Press)

RAVENNA — The tide of national defense preparation rolled up to the doorsteps of scores of Portage county farm dwellers today, forcing them to hunt new homes, new jobs or other acres to till.

On 30 square miles of peaceful farmland northeast of here where crops now grow, an estimated 4,500 men will begin soon the construction of a $14,215,000 ammunition loading plant.

The property was acquired by the government yesterday at a cost of about $2,000,000. Purchase papers for the 18,000 acres were signed for the war department at Akron by Col. R. F. Valliant, chief of the real estate branch of the quartermaster general's department.

This acreage included 108 farms and 115 other parcels, options on which were gathered by a dozen real estate men over a period of several weeks.

After completion of the deal, Col. Valliant announced tenants on the property would be given 30 days to vacate and that construction would start at the end of that period.

The plant to be built and operated by the Atlas Powder company of Wilmington, Del., under a contract announced by the war department yesterday, will be completed in 10 months. It was expected the project would employ northern Ohio labor, possibly some of the farm tenants affected by it.

Still to be purchased for the plant site are 3,000 acres just east of Ravenna. Options also have been asked on 200 acres in Trumbull county, acquisition of which would force Trumbull county boy scouts to seek a new reservation and camp.

COMPETITION

WASHINGTON — (AP) — Eight Ohio cities have applied formally for selection as the site for an airplane engine laboratory and officials said that each offered necessary facilities.

Representatives of the national advisory committee for aeronautics have inspected Buckeye sites and John F. Victory, committee secretary, said a decision was expected by mid-September.

The cities seeking the laboratory are Akron, Cleveland, Cincinnati, Columbus, Dayton, Toledo, Troy and Zanesville.

WATCHMAN DIES

R. T. Homman, 71, Had Lived In Ashland for 25 Years.

ASHLAND — Robert Taylor Homman, 71, retired watchman for the Erie railroad, died at his home, 322 East Eighth street, yesterday afternoon after a long illness.

He was born at Gaysport, O., Nov. 5, 1868, but had been a resident of Ashland for 25 years. On July 4, 1894 he married Selina Brearley who survives him.

He is also survived by four children, Spencer Homman, Mrs. Lorena Newman, Mrs. Lucille Major and a foster son, Lawrence Anders, all of Ashland.

The body was removed to the home where it will remain until the funeral hour, 3 p. m. Friday at the Denbow-Bear funeral home. Dr. A. A. Hunter, pastor of First Methodist church, of which Mr. Homman was a member, and Rev. I. E. Sower, pastor of Maple Grove church, will officiate. Burial will be in Maple Grove cemetery.

The Voice of BROADWAY

—By DOROTHY KILGALLEN

You Meet Such Uninteresting People. (But You Can't Print That!)

Broadway is full of them. Some of them belong on the Stem, and some of them are imports from Hollywood, Palm Beach, Newport and Chicago. You can go into a nunnery and escape them, of course, but if you patronize the platinum bistros you can't brush them off like you would a speck of powder—you can try, but you can't brush them off. They make the Broadway alphabet of bores.

* * *

A is for Al, the dashing and handsome young screen star who never fails to corral you at a corner table and deliver an impromptu off-the-record speech on the bad qualities of his famous ex-wife. He swears he'll get even if it takes the best years of his life. The way she treated him, the things she did to him! She's shallow and vicious and fickle—but you know, of course, that he'd go back to her in a split second if she'd only whistle!

* * *

B is for Bobby, the eccentric playboy, who thinks a chorus girl is trying to blackmail him if she says, "Nice evening, isn't it?" and who always suspects that the lads at the table next to his in the Stork club are gangsters who will kidnap him as he leaves.

* * *

C is for Cuddles, the blond Cinderella who was the herome of the most famous rags-to-riches child marriage of the last quarter century. She's pleasant and a lot nicer than you'd imagine, but after her third drink she develops a British accent that makes Noel Coward sound like a Georgia cracker!

* * *

D is for Danton, who owns a very nice restaurant. The food is good, the service excellent, but Danton manages to take the glamour out of eating. He insists on guiding you through his kitchen, because you're such an honored guest—and he puts you to sleep en route by outlining the history of each pot and pan!

* * *

E is for Ethelinde, a debutante of the season. She wears dark glasses in the Beachcomber, where it's so dark the waiters can't see the cigaret girls—and when she yoo-hoo's to a friend, she lifts the glasses, so the friend can see who's yoo-hooing.

* * *

F is for Frankie, the short, but not snappy comedian, who has convinced himself that he's Romeo, Casanova, Tristan and Benvenuto Cellini wrapped up in a pin-stripe suit. He'll look at you with that soulful, heavy-lidded glamor-gaze, and confide in a modest whisper that such belles as Madeleine Carroll, Brenda Frazier and Myrna Loy did their best to win him, but failed—they're nice girls, but they just don't appeal to him!

G is for Gertie, that sultry screen star whose name became a household word after she became identified with an exotic bit of apparel. She is now a slave to fashion, but you are tempted to murmur, "Watch it, Gertie!" when she gushes about her wardrobe, because her torso is better than her diction. She's just never learned to say Schiaparelli, Lanvin, tulle, or lingerie. Oh well, she can't pronounce them, but she can afford them!

H is for Harry, known on the Big Street as a "shoestringer." He's never been successful, but every time you meet him he's got the biggest hit on his hands since "Lightnin." He's almost set to start rehearsals, but if you dig up a gilded and willing angel with $10,000 to lose, Harry'll cut you in on the movie rights. So far as the Broadway memory can recall, he's never put on a play, but every time he hits the headlines with a phony romance, the papers call him "Harry Soandso, the Broadway producer."

L is for Lizzie, the generously proportioned song star who likes to have the public consider her Lady Bountiful in the all-too-solid flesh and who is endlessly selling tickets to this or that worthy cause—provided she gets enough publicity. Only those who've been around a long time know that she's been anything but generous to her family and a few people who helped her—because if she gave a donation to those nobodies, she wouldn't get her picture in the papers!

M is for Moe, another comedian. He's always sitting around Lindy's singing the blues about how actors are imposed upon by organizations giving benefits, how unfair it is to ask performers to give their time and their talent free. But when Moe goes to a benefit (and he goes to them all) he monopolizes the floor for hours—and if the master of ceremonies forgets to introduce him, he's livid!

N is for Nathaniel. He's from Park Avenue—a prosperously paunchy inebriate. He traps you at some East Side salon and hems you in until he's told you—for the nineteenth time, how he and the other boys at Yale swiped the sociology professor's toupee and dyed it pink. But in Wall street, his judgment is big stuff, which might explain a lot about Wall street.

O is for Olga, the screen comedienne who hails from Broadway but was accused of snubbing her old friends when she made her first visit here after her big success in Hollywood. She gave her pals the once-over-lightly Garbo that trip, and the reaction was highly unfavorable.

Then she went back to the coast and made a couple of flop cinemas—and when the celluloid sycophants stopped treating her like the New Bernhardt, Olga returned to New York. But she's a different lass now. She wants everyone to love her, even the shoe shine boys. She wants everyone to know she's democratic.

So when she comes into a night club she bows and grins even at the characters she's only met once—and she practically kisses the bus boys!
